Combat Casualties Hit 4.5 -Year Low

SAIGON (AP) — The allied commands today reported 43 Americans killed in action last week, scattered fighting in Cambodia with 44 enemy troops killed in one clash and sharp curtailment in American air attacks in Vietnam due to a storm.

Another 279 Americans were wounded last week, and a U.S. spokesman said the total of 322 American casualties was the lowest since March 5, 1966. The total of 43 dead was three more than the week before, but the spokesman said it was the fourth consecutive week that U.S. battlefield deaths were below 50, the first time this had occurred since September-October 1965.

Another 38 American servicemen died last week from accidents or illness, the U.S. Command said, raising total American casualties in the war since Jan. 1, 1961, to 43,904 killed in action, 8,730 dead from accidents or illness, and 291,024 wounded.

South Vietnamese headquarters reported 215 of its troops killed in action last week and 625 wounded, and the U.S. Command said allied forces killed 1,484 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong. The South Vietnamese tolls were Saigon's lowest since mid-September; the enemy toll was 327 more than claimed the week before.

The U.S. Command said American forces experienced only light combat activity during the past 24 hours, with field reports indicating no Americans killed in action.

American air activity dropped to one of its lowest levels of the war because of tropical storm Louise's 58-mile-an-hour winds. Only 21 fighter-bomber strikes were flown from 8 a.m. Wednesday to 8 a.m. today. Planes were moved from two coastal bases, but the storm blew itself out today, and normal operations were expected Friday.

The storm had no effect on the Air Force's high-altitude B52 bombers, which for the 20th consecutive day pounded the Ho Chi Minh trail through southeastern Laos. Authoritative sources said the volume of North Vietnamese supplies moving along the jungle network is 50 per cent greater than last year.

In the ground war, the 6,000man South Vietnamese task force operating in the Fish Hook region of Cambodia about 80 miles north of Saigon clashed Wednesday with North Vietnamese troops along Route 7. The South Vietnamese said they killed 44 of the enemy and captured six weapons. South Vietnamese casualties were one killed and 36 wounded.

Enemy attacks also were reported on South Vietnamese forces 15 miles northeast of Phnom Penh and on Cambodian forces 45 miles southwest and 35 miles west of the capital, but they did not appear to be serious.

SMOKE AND WATER DAMAGE at the front of the Parma Variety Store after it was engulfed by fire at 7 p.m. last night. Firemen from Parma, Malden, and Risco fought the blaze for three hours before bringing it under control.

Fire Strikes at Parma

PARMA — Firemen, assisted by the Malden and Risco fire departments, battled for three hours last night before extinguishing a fire that started at 7 p.m. in the rear of a variety store and spread to an adjacent vacant building.

Faulty electrical wiring is suspected as the cause. It is reported the fire started in a partition near the ceiling. The upper level of the variety store was butted by the flames and the lower section had extensive smoke and water damage.

Due to the illness of the owner and operator, Mrs. Leola Garner, the store had been closed for a week.

About one- fourth of an adjoining building, including the roof and rear wall, were destroyed atMitchell Cafe, south of the vacant building.

City Marshal "Doc" Lindley praised the assistance given by the Malden and Risco fire departments. He said "they saved that side of town."

Jewel Allen Rounding Out Career Aiding People

By LEO SCHADE

Mrs. Jewell Allen is believed to be known by more men, women and children, in and around Sikeston than most residents-- and rightly so. She has befriended thousands, both white and black.

She has been secretary and treasurer to two organizations 17 years, the Community Welfare Office and the United Fund.

On Nov. 17 "Miss Jewell" will resign from the United Fund at the end of this year's fund raising campaign. She has served under 17 different chairmen, three years after its founding.

She will resign from the Welfare Center July 31.

It was by accident that she became associated with two associations. In the early fall of 1953 she was asked by Mayor Charles Butler, who was chairman of the Sikeston Community Chest, if she would serve as executive secretary of the chest drive as well as the Community Welfare office secretary. The Chest was the United Fund predecessor.

Her answer:

"I believe I will, and it will give me a chance to change from my teaching career."

She changed from a teaching career of 37 years to one that would take her through 17 years in caring for unfortunate persons, distressed and disabled.

Her teaching career included 21 at Miner Switch, Salcedo and her final eight years at Crowder.

She recalls her teaching vividly, when she said, "at Miner Switch we lost two school buildings. A tornado blew one away, and the second burned down, after which they built a two-room school."

She graduated from Cape Girardeau Teachers College.

"Changing my vocation was a challenge to me, but I enjoyed every minute of it, and will retain many fond memories in both positions," Mrs. Allen said.

"In the Community Welfare office work, I tried to supplement for people what the Scott County Welfare office was unable to give immediately. I remember a case in point when a man came to the office and asked for the price to obtain a truck chauffeur's license ($11.50), as he had a job awaiting, after he had been out of work a long time. He was given the money.

"In all these 17 years, I recall only once where a recipient offered to repay a loan for travel expense and several meals to return to Pennsylvania. After three years she wrote and said she could return the amount.

Mrs. Allen said there were occasions when persons would be rude. "Once I was alone when a man came in and asked for a donation," she recalled. "We had no money and I refused, after which he jumped to his feet and threatened me with a knife. Certainly I was scared, and reached for a knife and the telephone at the same time, when a business neighbor passed by and saw what was going on."

"The welfare office began with a budget of $7,500, and over the many years advanced gradually, but today stands at $9,300 of our United Fund."

The welfare office takes nine months of her year and about three months are devoted to the United Fund. Welfare funds are expended for food, clothing, travel, drugs, rent, dental and medical bills.

Race is no barrier in welfare work. On one occasion a small boy had a kidney ailment and a physician made arrangements in a neighboring hospital. A benefactor stood by but the operation was paid by office funds. Many patients are transported to the cancer hospital in Columbia, and the hospital refunds the cost if its funds are not depleted.

"We approve many children for paid school lunches and contribute items in case of fires and other losses, including a number in the rural areas," Mrs. Allen said.

As executive secretary of the United Fund, her duties are many. Records are made of all contributions, agencies and the working groups must be coordinated. Each year problems increase as do requests of benefitting agencies.

Besides her working duties over more than 50 years, she is active in the Murray Lane Baptist church, she has taught an adult Sunday school class since 1929.

She was born in Cave- in - Rock, Ill., near Golconda, daughter of J. H. and Della J. Tyer.

Her father farmed in the Canalou area many years until he decided to move to Sikeston and became a partner in the Pinnell Mercantile company on Front street. He later entered the grocery business on Malone avenue. He died in 1936.

Mrs. Allen lives at 515 South Kingshighway with her 99- year-oldsmother.

She is proud of her two children, a son, Lt. Col retired, Paul David Allen, Arlington, Va., and a daughter, Mrs. James O. Kelley, of Sikeston, four grandsons and three great-grandchildren.

Her retirement plans are indefinite.

MRS. JEWELL ALLEN, records United Fund receipts at her office on 111 North Scott St.She has served as fund secretary- treasurer 17 years.

Berry Denies Invited Self

Edward H. Berry, a certified public accountant, and Robert Hearnes, a certified public accountant in Charleston, both Democrats, have been involved in the contest for the state auditor's office between incumbent Democrat Haskell Holman and Republican Christopher "Kit" Bond.

Berry and Hearnes were accused of inviting themselves to a meeting of the Public Affairs Council of Missouri CPAs Sept. 28 in Springfield to apply pressure on accountants who had issued a report showing inconsistencies in operations of Holman's office.

In a prepared statement Berry replied to statements of Max Myers, former state representative from Springfield, who is chairman of a state committee to elect Bond.

In Wednesday's Kansas City Star and the Springfield News Leader, Myers accuses Berry and Hearnes of "personally" inviting themselves to the Springfield CPA meeting to apply the "pressure."

Berry said "this is a deliberate misstatement of the facts by Myers."

He explained they were invited to the meeting by Thomas E. Miles, a CPA from Kennett, who made the invitation for Frank L. Pelot Jr., of St. Louis, who is chairman of the Public Affairs Council of Missouri CPAs. Berry said Miles called "us" and asked if we would attend the meeting, and then "Miles flew us to and from Springfield in his personal airplane."

Berry said the meeting was called by Pelot to discuss possible legislation to be introduced this year.

Berry said two accountants were present whose names had been used in connection with the report issued by Bond charging inconscistencies in Holman's office. Berry said both men advised him they had written letters to Myers advising they had not given him permission to use their names on any report.

Berry said he called the committee's attention to articles in a metropolitan newspaper in St. Louis on Sept. 17 under the headline "Accountants Assail State Auditor's office," and another article on Oct. 3 by one of the staff writers of the paper stating "A review of his office (Holman) by the State Certified Public Accountants, etc." and that, "in my opinion this was an implication that this report had the approval of the Missouri Society of CPAs and that this is not true."

Berry said C. Robert Meyer, president of the Missouri Society of CPA's, has stated the report was not issued under the auspices of the society, which will not endorse candidates.

Bonds' report was made following a study by a group of individual CPAs of Holman's office.

Berry said Myer was correct in the statement that he is a friend of Governor Hearnes, a colonel on his staff, and he is an active supporter of Holman.

Red China Reaches for U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — All the evidence indicates that Communist China is trying to come out of its isolationist shell and establish normal relations with other nations in the world. But after years marked by mutual lack of trust, the task is not going to be easy for the Red giant, and this year -- once again -- she is expected to be rejected for membership in the United Nations.

In last year's vote, 48 members of the United Nations favored letting down the barriers for Red China -- four more than the previous year. Fifty-six opposed it, two fewer than in 1968; and there were 21 abstentions, a drop of two from the year before.

Two of the nations that abstained from the balloting last year were Italy and Belgium, both of which had been staunch U.S. allies in opposing admission for Red China. Both have been negotiating with Peking for over a year on the possibility of diplomatic recognition.

The two Western nations are believed to be a bit closer to agreement with Red China on recognition now that Canada has announced it will exchange ambassadors with the mainland government and withdraw diplomatic recognition from the Taipei government of Nationalist China.

One of the big stumbling blocks in the way of a diplomatic exchange between Canada and Red China in the past was believed to be Canada's attitude toward Communist Chinese membership in the United Nations. Now that diplomatic recognition is a reality, it's not yet known just how Canada will vote this year on the China question.

In addition to the votes of Italy, Belgium and Canada, other question marks this year are the votes of Bolivia, Peru and Chile, all of which have demonstrated marked swings to the left during the past year. In last year's balloting, Bolivia and Peru were opposed to Red Chinese admission, and Chile abstained.

In the first vote ever taken on the issue, in 1950, admission for Communist China was rejected by a vote of 33 to 6 The closest was in 1965, when the vote was a 47-47 tie.

As it did last year, the United States is prepared to sponsor a resolution which would declare the issue important enough to require a two-thirds majority for approval. That resolution, which could prove ciritical eventually in barring Communist China from admission to the world body, was approved last year by a vote of 71-38 with four abstentions.

With 45 nations now recognizing Red China and the number promising to grow in the future, however, many observers see it as only a question of time before there will be a Red Chinese mission to the U.N. in New York.

Nixon Keeps Running Mate Choice Open But Praises Agnew

CHICAGO (AP) — President Nixon, carrying his cross-country Republican campaign to the Pacific Coast today, is keeping open his option on whether to back Vice President Spiro T. Agnew as his 1972 running mate.

Before flying to Illinois Wednesday night, Nixon was asked in Texas about a published report that Agnew might be dumped from the GOP ticket in 1972 in favor of Rep. George Bush, provided Bush wins a hotly contested Senate race in the Lone Star State.

"I'll cover that as I get along in the campaign," Nixon replied.

While his response seemed noncommittal, and he never has publicly committed himself to backing Agnew for renomination, the chief executive added a few words of encourage his vice president: "I must say that he is one of the great campaigners of all ... I think he is doing a wonderful job."

It was understood that Agnew plaeed a concerned telephone call to the White House after reading the report that he might be sidetracked.

The story, published in the Dallas Times Herald, was distributed by the Washington Post-Los Angeles Times news service and was written by David Broder.

Jim Allison, deputy chairman of the Republican National Committee, said, "I wish they'd run that story next week ... It doesn't help."

Allison apparently theorized that Texans might interpret the published account as an administration "plant" to win their votes—and react against it.

Harry Dent, one of Nixon's chief political lieutenants, said of the Bush-for-vice-president story, "There's nothing to it."

Ronald L. Ziegler, Nixon's press secretary, said today "There has been absolutely no discussion by the President and his principal aides about the 1972 vice-presidential nomination—or even whether he will himself be a candidate for reelection."

Nixon scheduled for today what he jokingly termed "a rather light day."

"I have two meetings in Illinois, one in Omaha, Neb., one in Rochester, Minn., then in San Jose, Calif., and then in San Clemente, Calif.," he said.

The President's immediate mission in Illinois was to boost Ralph Tyler Smith for an elected term in the Senate. Republican Smith, according to Illinois polls, is the distinct underdog in his contest with Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson III.

Smith was appointed to the Senate vacancy left by the death of Everett M. Dirksen, to serve until the general election.

Ratchford Makes Budget Plea

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The budget appeals board wound up its hearings Wednesday after hearing the interim president of the University of Missouri, Dr. C. Brice Ratchford, ask for the institution's full request of $109 million in operations money.

Ratchford said any less would cut into the quality of public higher education in Missouri. The tentative budget had been cut by Comptroller John C. Vaughn to $86.4 million, about $6 million more than the university is now getting for operations on its four campuses.

"We have gone much further than slimming off the excess fat," Ratchford said. "We have cut into the heart of the operation. More bluntly, we have certainly hurt quality."

Pair Sought in Alleged Plot

CHICAGO (AP) — Illinois state police issued an all-points bulletin early today for two men who officers said were wanted for questioning about an alleged assassination plot against President Nixon.

The President arrived at O'Hare International Airport Wednesday night and was staying in a motel not far from the airport in Northwest Chicago, before resuming his campaign for Republican candidates in next week's election.

State police said they received information on the two men from police in Arlington Heights, a northwestern suburb.

Lt. Joseph Ostermann of the Arlington Heights police declined to identify the informant. He would say only that the men were being sought in connection with a reported assassination plot.

The FBI in Chicago said it had been informed and was investigating.

SENATOR SYMINGTON DESERVES RE-ELECTION

From the voter's standpoint, the Missouri race for the United States Senate this autumn is a dream contest. Each party has nominated its most qualified man for that high office. The Democratic incumbent, Stuart Symington, has built an international reputation during his 25 years in public life. The Republican nominee, Attorney General John C. Danforth, is one of the most appealing young men to emerge in Missouri politics in many years. Although the choice is a difficult one, The Star believes that Senator Symington has earned the right to a fourth term. In the Senate he has addressed himself to many of the critical issues facing the nation, while at the same time he has been an effective representative of his home state. His seniority on three powerful Senate committees (armed forces, foreign affairs and space) cannot be overlooked. In addition, he serves on the joint economics committee.

From the Missouri viewpoint, his record is impressive. No one has worked harder both publicly and behind the scenes to win appropriations for flood control projects.

Kansas City has seldom, if ever, had a more loyal friend in the Senate. His door has always been open to local delegations. Symington played a decisive role in keeping major league baseball in Kansas City. He lined up the necessary votes in the Senate to win approval of the new federal office building here.

Win or lose, Jack Danforth, who is only 34 years old, should have a bright future in public life. As we see it, the only problem now is that he is in the wrong race at the wrong time.

From The Kansas City Star

As if anybody could think otherwise, we'll say emphatically that our vote in November will go to Stuart Symington for Senator. Without going into qualifications, our first reason would be that he is a personal friend, just as he was of our father. His first private secretary was our first cousin, Catherine Blanton Roberts, now deceased. The first one to ask him to run for the Senate was our father. He hasn't always voted the way we wanted him to, but we doubt if our editorials would always please him.

TYPICAL AMERICAN VOTER

A new book recently out, "The Real Majority," by Richard Scammon and Ben J. Wattenberg, says that three in four voters "never set foot in a college classroom."

And only one in eight voters has been graduated from a college of any kind.

Dick Scammon, you may recall, was Director of the Census back in 1960, and has appeared on television with his analyses of the American public.

On the other hand he warns, "If the electorate is not 'intellectual,' it is most certainly not composed of ignoramuses." About 62 per cent are at least high school graduates. It is Scammon's opnion that 'the inherent wisdom of the American voter is substantial."

The typical American voter, the authors' conclude after producing a book full of fascinating statistics, is something like this:

"White, about 47, middle- educated, Protestant, with family income of about $8,622 from a job requiring work with the hands and not exclusively the mind."

If you get the votes of all such people, brother, you're in!

INCIDENT AT BLAIR HOUSE

One late autumn afternoon 20 years ago, Oscar Collazo and Griselio Torresola, two young Puerto Ricans, went to Pennsylvania Station in New York City and purchased coach tickets to Washington. Although they had families in the Bronx, the men bought one- way tickets because they didn't expect to come back. They had decided to assassinate President Truman.

Collazo was to say later that he had no grudge against Truman. He wanted to kill the President -- not the man. Both he and Torresola were Puerto Rican nationalists who hoped that a presidential assassination would trigger a revolution in the United States. In the turmoil, Puerto Rico might break free from this country and gain its independence. This would have achieved the aim of the Nationalist Party, which at the time was staging an abortive revolt on the island.

The day after their arrival in the capital, on Nov. 1, 1950, Collzao and Torresola set out for Blair House, across from the White House, where President Truman and his family were living while the official residence was being repaired. They carried two pistols and 69 rounds of ammunition. The front door of the mansion was open because of the unseasonably warm weather, so they decided to charge right up the steps in hopes of finding the President somewhere in the building and gunning him down.

At 2:20 p.m., Collazo, who had been shuffling inconspicuously along with a number of pedestrians passing Blair House, reached a point about eight feet from Donald T. Birdsell, a White House policeman who stood with his back to him on the lower steps of the mansion. Collazo pulled his pistol, pointed it straight at the guard and fired. It produced only a sharp click.

At the sound of the click, Birdzell turned and saw Collazo pounding on his pistol with his left first. Suddenly, it went off, hitting the guard in the leg. Despite his wound and Collazo firing after him, Birdzell dashed out into Pennsylvania Avenue. He returned the fire while Collazo started running up the steps. Other guards opened up on him.

Meanwhile, Torresola moved up from the other side and fatally wounded Leslie Coffelt, another White House policeman who was shooting at Collazo from inside a booth. Torresola then turned his fire on two other guards, wounding both. At this point, Coffelt, despite his mortal wound, leaned out of the doorway of his booth and fired a single shot. It hit Torresola in the brain, killing him.

Altogether, 27 shots were fired in little more than two minutes. President Truman, who had been napping, was awakened by the shooting and hurried to a window of his bedroom. Guards, fearing there might be other assassins in the crowd, shouted: "Get back! Get back!" Truman got back. Collazo was sentenced to the electric chair for the murder of Coffelt, but the President, without explanation, later commuted the sentence to life imprisonment.

Just recently the Federal debt limit was again raised to the staggering figure of $395 billion on a temporary basis and $380 billion on a permanent basis. The actual debt is approximately $375 billion, costing taxpayers some $19 billion annually in interest charges.

So it was interesting to note what Rep. George Goodling (R.- Pa.) had to say... "The Congress simply has failed to come to grips with the problem of controlling federal spending. We need to be rehabilitated along the lines of fiscal sobriety. Let me now place some of the blame squarely on the shoulders of some who will read this. I am amazed at the communications I receive from highly successful and competent businessmen who lose all sense of fiscal integrity and responsibility when asking for additional taxpayer money to finance a pet project. Recently I have wirtten what may have been some sharp words simply because I am getting fed up to the ears with requests for additional appropriations with never one suggestion as to a source of additional revenue. The paradox is this: If there were a vote called on the higher taxes essential to financing these pet projects, a unanimous 'no' would ring out loud and clear."

"STOP REPUBLICAN RECESSION -- VOTE DEMOCRATIC"

That is the theme of Missouri's Democratic campaign.

It will give people or our state something to think about. As we said before in this column, under the Nixon policies of tight money, high interest, cutbacks on education, health, construction, etc., we have constantly rising operational prices, while at the same time we are a recession so far as income is concerned.

This probably applies more to the farmer than to anyone else in our economy.

Halloween night poses a special safety problem that is unique to this one night of the year. With this in mind, Colonel E. I. (Mike) Hockaday, the Superintendent of the Missouri State Highway Patrol, urged motorists and parents to do their respective part to protect the many children who will be outdoors for tricks and treats on this particular festive night.

"I urge motorists to be particularly cautious and alert for children on Halloween night," Hockaday stated. "While drivers should always be on the lookout for children, the added hazard of excited youngsters crossing streets at night, from street corners and from behind parked cars, often wearing dark costumes or clothing, increases the danger of them being hit by a car. Drivers should be extra careful to compensate for these hazards associated with Halloween."

The Patrol Superintendent then reminded parents to make sure their youngsters wear something white when trick and treatingon halloween night. He suggested that a white hankerchief or scarf be tied around their arm so they can be better seen by approaching motorists. Hockaday also urged parents to escort their small children on Halloween outings to help prevent a tragic traffic accident.

"Missouri has experienced a comparatively good traffic record in respect to youngsters on Halloween night," Hockaday continued. "But there have been a few young trick and treaters injured and killed on our streets in the past. I urge motorists and parents, therefore, to do everything possible to make the upcoming Halloween night safe for youngsters in traffic as they partake in this once a year festival."

HERE'S A VERY personal question which we doubt very much you'll write a letter to the editor with an answer. Just what kind of American are you? Will you go to the polls November 3 and vote regardless of the weather? And will you vote on all the ballots with personal conviction? You know there are an awful lot of countries where you have no choice of candidates or propositions, but the people go and vote in far greate; percentages than they do here in our good old America where there is a candidate from various parties, giving you a choice to make. Nearly all of you who readthis have criticism of the way things are going htese days, but if youdon't vote, do you really have the right to complain? Yes, our good country expects a lot of complaint, but you owe it to yourself and to your country to go and vote.

PLENTY OF STYLE IN BOY'S SPRING APPAREL TRENDS: The Norfolk jacket is coming along as a major clothing fashion for boys for 1970. It is already quite popular in most parts of the country, says the Men's Fashion Association... Shape and body-line are a bit hit in the youth market. Pants are wider, many of them 20 inches and more at knee and bottom. There are straight legs and flares, and many of them are extremely high- waisted... And, in all models of jackets, the trend to lowering buttoning (in either single- or double- breasted) is strong-- to show more shirt and tie.

SOME FACTS THAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT THE U.S.A.

Voters at the Nov. 5 election voted in their 37th president — Richard M. Nixon.

The U.S.A. is now a nation of about 200 million people, 102 million females and 98 million males. sure glad to report that the figue came out even.

In round numbers (what do square numbers look like)175 million are white, 25 million non-white.

120 million are old enough to vote.

125 million live in cities.

91 million are married.

33 million own their own homes.

6 million attend college.

50 million attend lower schools.

33 million are white collar workers.

27 million are blue collar workers.

123 million claim they go to church.

9 million are foreign born.

11 million are widows or widowers.

19 million are over 65.

1-6 million are 25 or over.

Our average age is 27.7.

About 85 million have been born since July 1, 1945.

These are not just dry statistics but should help outline prospects for your future business. There are 120 million old enough to vote. Your job is to see your share of them -- all who live in your territory. So on down the line in the population are six there million college student prospects; 50 million who attend lower schools who are prospects; 19 million who are under five years of age are prospects too.

In your territory you have your fair share of these prospects waiting for your call and your job is not completed until you have checked out your share of the population.

And there have been 85 million births since July 1, 1945. this 85 million would be 23 years old. What a fine prospect list. What a fine project for an agent to set about interviewing all the people in his town and county who are 18 to 30 years old.

JUSTICE'S BLINDFOLD IN PLACE

The theft and forgery of tickets is assuming the proportions of a major headache for the airline industry.

An estimate by Franklin Oelschlager, top security officer for the Air Transport Association of America, places the loss to the airlines in 1969 at $500,000- double the total of the previous year.

In Cleveland recently, a former employe of one airline was arrested for stealing 2,000 blank tickets, potentially worth many thousands of dollars. The arraigning judge, however, reduced the offense to petty larceny on the ground that the man could only be charged with having stolen the actual value of the paper stock.

THE MISSING ELEMENT

Naval officer and Director of Naval History, Rear Admiral Ernest M. Eller (Ret.), recently made a point that is often overlooked in our strife- torn land. "Unhappily," he observes, "most education and most panaceas for social ills like riots, slums, and crime stress mostly material solutions rather than those of the soul and character. We should not neglect the material solutions but unless we emphasize first of all the nobler ones of the spirit we will surely fail."

Admiral Eller then quotes the words of a young naval aviator written to his wife shortly before he lost his life in Viet Nam. In them lie the soul and the character of which the Admiral speaks. "I don't want my sons to have to fight a war I should have fought. I wish more Americans felt that way. I am not a 'war monger.' It will be me who gets shot at. But it is blind and foolish not to have the courage of your convictions. It will not live under a totalitarian society and I don't want you to either. I believe in God and I will resist any force that attempts to remove God from society no matter what the name."

A Beginning

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON -- Now that the Nixon administration is winding down the anti= poverty program, many of the nation's poor are wondering where the money went.

Much of it went to enrich unscrupulous contractors and anti - poverty officials interested only in making a fast buck.

This column has already reported how Volt Information Sciences, Inc., banked some $30 million in anti= poverty money by cashing in on friendships inside the Office of Economic Opportunity.

At the lower levels, some small contractors demonstrated equal skill at extracting from the taxpayers money intended for the poor. VISTA's dealings wih two associated contractors, forexample, cost the poor $260,000 for some specious "recruiting materials."

A three- month investigation by this column has produced the following findings:

One contractor skipped the country after pocketing almost $200,000. The other continued to milk VISTA for an additional $62,000.

A VISTA official had part of his home carpeted "at cost," courtesy of one of the contractors. Indeed, the carpeting might have been installed free of charge if another official hadn't learned about it and demanded a bill.

The case of John Burwell, a Washington, D.C. designer and photographer now abiding in England, illustrates how the contract game is played.

BILKING THE POOR

In the fall of 1968, VISTA officials decided to place "recruiting exhibits" at a National Career Exposition in New York City. They contracted with Burwell to construct the exhibits.

According to one insider who was directly involved, Burwell did nothing but "enlarge some existing photographs, mount them and hang them on the wall." For this,"temporary exhibit," our investigation shows, Burwell was paid $21,186.

VISTA executives, as part of their war against poverty, then decided to construct a series of permanent exhibits. "There was no reason the temporary exhibits could not have been used again,"one VISTA official told my associate, Joe Spear. "But that, of course, is not the way you give away money."

Without seeking bids, VISTA administrative officer Roy Little instructed Burwell to begin work on the permanent exhibits. Arrangements were made to pay him as a Volt subcontractor. Thus Volt would get its customary slice of the poor peoples' pie.

Not long after Burwell began work on the permanent exhibits, government auditors discovered that over a span of three years he had been paid $115,301 for unaccounted "recruitment materials.' This was in addition to $49,823 that he had collected in direct billings for work on the contract.

VISTA Volunteer magazine.

Burwell picked up another $11,393 for the first permanent exhibit, then hastily departed for England. His associate, M. Jack Hirose, immediately took over the contracts for three more exhibits. Again, no bids were sought.

Another designer, Donald Applegate of Mt Rainer, Md., later learned of Hirose's work on the exhibits and felt they were "way overpriced."

In search of pricing information, Applegate contacted an exhibit builder by the name of Emmett Cunningham of Alexandria, Va. Applegate quoted Cunningham as saying that he and Hirose were partners and that he had built the same exhibits before for $5,000 apiece.

OFFICIAL'S CARPET

"He called me back later," Applegate told this column, "and said there was more involved than he had realized. He told me that apparently some government officials had gotten their houses carpeted as part of the deal. He asked me to submit a competitive bid so as not to make them look too bad."

In connection with the carpeting, Applegate said, Cunningham mentioned the name of Alexander Grant, then VISTA's recruitment chief.

Cunningham confirmed the conversations with Applegate but told this column he lied to Applegate "to mislead a competitor." Both Cunningham and Hirose admitted "selling" the carpet to Grant for $180. Cunningham said he "made a profit of 20 per cent on the deal." Hirose, however, claimed Grant got the carpet "at cost."

Grant acknowledged buying the carpet from Hirose "at wholesale," but maintained he could see "nothing irregular" in the deal. However, Roy Little told this column that Grant paid for the carpet only "after I asked him to pay for it. He put me on the spot." Little denied that he had ever received any favors from contractors.

Meanwhile, only parts of the controversial exhibits have ever been used. Three are now sitting idle in a government warehouse in Washington. Volt recently turned over the fourth to General Electric for possible use under a new recruitment

DENIALS BACKFIRE

The arrest of 13 suspects in a drug raid at famed Walter Reed Army Hospital has left a number of military bureaucrats red-faced.

Most embarrassed by the arrests were Brig. Gen. Winant Sidle, the Army information chief, and Louis Arrants, an information officer at the Hospital, who had pooh - poohed our stories about drug abuses at Walter Reed.

When a reporter for this column visited the hospital last August to investigate the drug problem, Arrants denied there was a problem and tried to force the reporter to surrender her notes.

After we reported that the hospital had become a "haven of drug abuse," and pointed out how Arrants had attempted to hide the facts, General Sidle received a complaint from a reader about Arrants's actions.

The general immediately supported Arrants in a smug letter which stated, falsely, that the subject of drug use had never been discussed by Arrants and our reporter.

YOUTH VS AGE

The White House is worried about money for social welfare programs. It's gotten down to whether the White House will cut the bill to aid dependent children or knock out funds for the elderly.

One despondent administrator said both arguments are so strong that he might as well flip a coin. Either the young or the old are going to have to go begging another year.

By JEFFREY D. ALDERMAN
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — For the panhandlers of New York City, the days of "Can you spare a dime for a cup of coffee?" are long gone.

As in any modern American business, panhandling has come up with a new bag of gimmicks to increase productivity.

A man, wearing a neat business suit and carrying a slick valise, comes up to you in the Port Authority bus terminal near Times Square.

"Hey buddy," he says. "Help me out, huh? Lost my wallet somewhere and haven't got enough change to get home to New Jersey. Need 40 cents."

He is difficult to resist. But despite his well-groomed, commuter look, the man is probably a panhandler.

Another man, observed recently on a Manhattan street corner, has come up with a more elaborate and probably more profitable version of the same game. He held a fist-full of cash and stopped passersby saying: "Do me a favor, pal? My car got towed away and I don't have enough cash to get it out of the police garage. All I need is four more bucks and I'll have the $75 for the fine and the towing fee."

Clever, huh? So clever, in fact, that this panhandler and other industrious beggars may take in as much as $200 or more a week by simply asking for spare change.

Panhandlers tend to congregate in areas where they will meet unsuspecting, less hardened out-of-towners. The bus and railroad stations are favorite spots, as are the major tourist attractions.

Music is often used to lure nickels and dimes from people. A man who stations himself daily near St. Patrick's Cathedral plays the violin while people drop change into a hat on the sidewalk. Another fellow plays a trumpet daily near a major department store. He has a dish for change and a sign saying, "Trying to get better."

Passengers getting off buses at the Port Authority often have their bags grabbed by persons who say they'll take them to the nearest taxi stand. Once at the taxi stand, they demand a dollar for their services. Official porters charge 35 cents and no tipping is permitted.

Begging is against the law. In New York it is illegal for persons to loiter for the purpose of begging or soliciting. The maximum penalty is $250. Few beggars, however, are ever arrested. Most citizens don't bother turning in complaints.

H.L. Hunt Says

DECISION AT OTTAWA

Canada, our "closest friend and ally," has turned its back on Taiwan and formally recognized the butchers of Peking as the legal government of China. Whatever explanations Ottawa may make for its actions, it will not soften the blow suffered by the United States and the remainder of the world.

If the brains of the vicious world of communism are in Moscow, part ot the powerhouse is in Peking. Thousands of our fighting men have died before the might of that powerhouse in Korea and Indo-China. The diplomatic recognition of communist China by Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau's government doesn't put the two nations into alliance but it weakens our hand as the leader of the front opposed to international communism.

The recognition also gives Peking new liscense in operating an embassy at our doorstep. The embassies of Russia and Red China are traditionally hot beds of subversive activity.

The decision at Ottawa also weakens, our position vis-a-vis Peking in keeping Taiwan in the United Nations and Red China out, although the world group has lost such stature already that this may not be a great diplomatic loss. Trudeau's actions in the field of diplomacy compliments the grains trade a arrangements that has existed between the two governments for a long time. Canada wheat feeds the stomachs of the people who aim at world domination through the subversion processes of communism.

Thus, our neighbor to the North takes an action that is within its province but that also indirectly stabs us in the back. Are these Canadians of the same stripe that bled and died for freedom at Dieppe?" HLH

TUPAMAROS' U.S.A. FASHION: Neo-Revolutionists' Female Leader Warns Of Political Kidnappings and Assassinations

NEW YORK -- For days on end now, every time one reached for a scotch, or whisked an hors d'oeuvre off a tray or put one's hand into a jacket pocket for a pipe to light up, there was a security man at one's side. They had tiny emblems in their lapels. They carried tiny cameras. Or they simply used fast film "movie taker" to record strangers.

They were part of the 1,000 special federal agents, 4,000 New York City police, and some 800 foreign bodyguards covering the United Nation reception circuit. They "made" (examined) hundreds of hotel rooms and banquet halls and looked into some 1,500 cars in search of dynamite bombs.

Basically, they appeared to be on routine celebrity security duty. But behind their fears was the image of America's latter-day "La Passionaria" -- the 28-year- old Bernardine Dohrn, leader of the first, truly trained, truly organized, truly disciplined revolutionary network of killers and kidnappers.

Call this movement what your whimsy decides -- Revolutionary Youth Movement (RYM I), or the "Weathermen," or the front in the U.S. for the agency of the Cuban Tri-Continental operation, or the global extension of Maoist Marxist - Leninist underground into America - but whatever you call it, don't dub it in the image of Nicholai Lenin's disdainful "infantile leftism."

Bernardine Dohrn's revolutionary followers are young - but not infantile. They have had their "war" councils -- one in Flint, Mich., in December 1969 -- less than 10 months ago. Then they met again in Cleveland, on Feb. 4 - not much more than eight months ago.

At this February session, Miss Dohrn's revolutionary aide, Mark Rudd (who led the first seizure of Columbia University) said the movement was going underground and would carry out assassinations.

This isn't overheated rhetoric by a youngster "stoned out of his head." It is cool revolutionary planning. After the declaration of war, the bombing and violence methodically moved eastward from California cities to Chicago to Rochester and then New York.

Comrade Dohrn, who refers to herself as a "revolutionary Communist" -- means it. In her own declaration of urban war she said it and meant it.

The Weatherman tactics would be, said she (who first devised the phrase Weatherman), an adaptation of "the classic guerrilla strategy of the Vietcong and the urban guerrilla strategy of the Tupamaros to our own situation here in the most technically advanced country in the world."

Note well this woman's words. She refers to the Tupamaros of Uruguay. This means kidnapping and slayings of hostages. This means the seizure of some prominent citizen or government official - and the demand for an exchange of prisoners. Perhaps for Angela Davis.

This means swift midnight raids on some factories and radio and television stations. Evidence of these plans is in the hands of some federal authorities.

"Dohrn" is a tough leader and disciplinarian. She is bright, fast, erudite and has ice water in her veins.

And she didn't learn her revolutionary strategy at the University of Chicago. There she got her Ph.D. in law. The training and tactics were developed in an underground here, run by a central committee which has "comrades" in Berkeley, Calif., Chicago, the auto city of Detroit, and New York. There are liaison couriers running into the Maoist "central" in Montreal and Havana.

Dohrn, a red lady of many aliases, has been to Yugosiavia for briefings by "new world revolutionists." And in July 1969, she spent five weeks in Havana. There, for two of those weeks, she consistently conferred with Vietcong specialists. Many other hours were taken by Latin neo - revolutionists who would make the late "Che" sound like an ancient Fabian Socialist.

Comrade Dohrn kept a diary. In it is evidence of her special explosive training, contacts and strategy. It is filled with notes on her indoctrination on "revolutionary concepts," guerrilla warfare, bombings, and the tactics aimed at unsettling the nerves and production of the U.S.

These are the tactics she has passed on to what the movement calls the "families and tribes." It is Bernardine Dohrn who directed the concentration on Kent State University. She and her comrades have been in and out of the campus for several years. At least 10 of the 58 persons arrested during the disturbances were not enrolled at the school.

There is considerable S.D.S. Weatherman literature which calls for "war" on the university. But Kent is only one of the concentrations planned.

There are other "target" campuses. And on Nov. 3, Election Day, her S.D.S. central committee has scheduled three national demonstrations -- San Francisco, Chicago and Detroit. They may or may not come off. Most of the Weathermen are underground or in Canada. They have a healthy respect for the Federal Bureau of Investigation's skill - if not for its director. They're still startled by the capture of Angela Davis. So they may not surface.

These revolutionists are young. They have time, patience and dynamite. The plan to use all three -- and Tupamaro's tactics, too.

Ann Landers

Why trim husband becomes fat man

Dear Ann Landers: The problem is my husband's weight. I know neither you nor I can do anything about it but I'm hoping Ed sees this letter in the paper and is motivated to do something himself. Everything else has failed.

When we were married Ed was a beautiful 180 pounds, wore a size 40 suit. Now, 17 years later, he squeezes himself into a size 48 and refuses to say how much he weighs. It can't be an ounce under 265.

Ed has been to two doctors. They both ruled out thyroid trouble. One doctor said, in my presence, "The over-worked gland is his mouth."

I plan Ed's meals carefully, no fats, no starches, low-cal desserts, sugar-free canned goods. When I find candy-bar wrappers and empty peanut sacks in his car I get so mad I nearly explode. He drinks beer like it was free. The only muscles that get any exercise are his eyeballs - great TV watcher

The two big loves in Ed's life are food and sex. Unfortunately, the love for food is destroying his ability to have sex. It is also destroying my desire for him. It's not easy to get sexually aroused by a man who has eaten himself out of shape. I've tried my darndest to fake it but I'm a poor actress and he can tell. This makes him unhappy and sometimes he is impotent.

Ed is a good man, devoted and kind and I do love him. But I worry that he is shortening his life, ruining his health and hurting our marriage. Is there anything you can think of to help him?--Worried in Seattle

Dear Worried: Please reread the first eleven words in the second sentence of your letter to me. Truer words were never spoken. Every overweight person must accept responsibility for himself - and this means responsibility for every ounce of fat he has added to his frame. Until HE decides to do something about it, nothing will happen.

I have considerable faith in: (1) Professional counseling. Sometimes when fat people learn WHY they are stuffing themselves, they quit. (2) Weight Watchers. This organization has produced extraordinary results for overweight people who have tried everything else without results. Seattle has several chapters and meeting places. (Look in the phonebook.) Do NOT urge Ed to follow either of these suggestions. Hand him this column and if he wants to act on it he will.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a middle-aged family man who has never been in any trouble whatsoever. Driving home from work tonight I picked up a rather forlong looking girl who was hitchhiking. She appeared to be about 15. After she got in the car she looked older. When we came to a light she saw a policeman on the curb. In a pleasant, conversational tone she said, "Give me $5 or I'll scream that you tried to rape me." I was so stunned I couldn't say a word. My first thought was the publicity. It can ruin a man whether he's innocent or guilty. Without hesitation I gave her $5. She smiled and said, "Thanks, sucker," then she jumped out of the car and ran off.

I told my wife about it the minute I arrived home. She said the same thing had happened to her male hairdresser last week. So please, Ann, warn people against picking up hitchhikers. It can be very dangerous. --Burned

Dear Burned: I've warned people about hitchhikers repeatedly. And now I'd like to say a word about shakedowns. When you gave that little twerp $5 you encouraged her to shake down the next guy. You should have turned her over to the cop right then and there.

Too many couples go from matrimony to acrimony.. Don't let your marriage flop before it gets started. Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Marriage-- What To Expect." Sen your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper eclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Journalism student says Southeast Asia servicemen dismayed

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP)—A senior journalism student at the University of Kansas who spent last summer as a correspondent in Southeast Asia says most American servicemen she talked to were confused and dismayed by the war.

Martha Manglesdorf said they told her they thought peace demonstrations at home were useless and selfish.

"Yet, they wear peace medals and beads," she said. "I think they wear them to show a sort of passive resistance. They feel, 'It's my job for a year. I accept it, but I don't condone it.'"

Miss Manglesdorf said she found the war zone depressing, but "I really wanted to stay. It took nearly three months to learn the ropes."

Martha represented the Kansas - based Harris newspaper group which hired her on a summer reporting intern's salary.

Her $1,200 round - trip plane ticket consumed most of that, laving her with only $300 for expenses, so she spent most of her time in Red Cross or nurses quarters at forward fire bases.

She traveled mostly by military helicopter, the safest way to get around, she says, although they came under small arms fire several times.

Martha brought back some opinions and attitudes of her own.

One of the most depressing aspects of the war, she said, is the despoliation of the Vietnam countryside.

Martha said she believes the South Vietnamese are capable of taking over the fighting themselves, but not until the United States pulls out wil they assume responsibility.

She believes that too many of the South Vietnamese either don't realize or don't care about the consequences of Communist or democratic forms of government to fight with conviction.

"Political arguments are almost irrelevant in Vietnam," she said. "They're nonsensical."

Because of the controversy back home over the Reserve Officers Training Corps programs, she said she asked platoon leaders she met if they had participated in ROTC.

"I really believe ROTC will be the salvation of the U.S. military," she said. "It shows up in the infantry. ROTC-trained platoon leaders are more broadened, exposed and not vulnerable to the 'military rut.' They seem to place a little more value in life above other things."

Martha said she has seen a few of the GI's she met in Southeast Asia since returning home to Prairie Village, Kan., and to the KU campus. They have put Vietnam behind them, she said. "We don't talk about it much."

Girl born without ears can hear and talk at 7

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Elena Arroyo is happy—very happy—because at last she has ears that stick out like any other 7-year-old girl's.

Elena was born without ears in a remote Otomi Indian village 200 miles northeast of Mexico City.

There weren't even any openings where her ears should have been.

"Several tribesmen told her parents that they should kill her," says Miss Vola Griste, a missionary of the Wycliffe Bible Translators who has spent 27 years among the Otomis.

"But her mother had been converted to Christianity, and she told them she couldn't do that, that the Lord gave her to them for some purpose. Right then and there, I pledged to help that little girl."

When Elena was old enough last year, Miss Griste took her to Oklahoma City, where an ear surgeon had offered his services.

"When the doctor finished he told me he didn't think he had done her any good," recalls Miss Griste. He was wrong. After a postoperative period, Elena could hear. Miss Griste considers it a miracle.

Elena began to learn to talk, but Otomi girls wear their hair long, pulled back off the ears, and if Elena couldn't do that she wouldn't have much of a future.

Executives of Realastic Industries, an Oakland firm that makes cosmetic restorations, heard about Elena and offered to help.

Money for the trip was raised through the efforts of James Santos, a United Auto Workers member employed at Realastic. A few weeks ago Elena was brought here to be measured for artificial ears.

This week she came back, a sober little girl with her black hair combed straight down, hiding ears that weren't there.

She walked out radiant, her hair pushed back behind her new ears in proper Otomi style.

"She was all giggly," said Miss Griste. "Kept looking at the mirrors around her and taking her hair, a strand at a time, placing it behind her ears."

The plastic ears are attached with a special adhesive.

Elena will stay with Miss Griste until she can be taken back to her home in Mexico.

Lady Bird says LBJ not involved in politics

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson says her husband has no intention of injecting himself into national politics and won't be "harnessed and bridled into anything demanding a schedule.

"He is concerned for a few personal friends he believes in," but that's the extent of his interest in the current election campaign, Mrs. Johnson said in an interview.

If asked his main occupation nowadays, Mrs. Johnson said, the ex-president is likely to reply: "I am trying to keep my grass green and keep my cattle fat."

"Vastly relieved" that her 783-page book, "A White House Diary," is now published, the former first lady said: "At the head of my docket now is learning to play golf."

Johnson needs a steady partner for the sport which he took up again this summer at Lady Bird Johnson Municipal Park near Fredericksburg, Tex.

His own book is progressing well Mrs. Johnson said. But she doesn't expect it to be out until sometime next year because the pubiishers "probably would give mine a play for a number of months."

Asked if Johnson might speak out in reply to President Nixon or Vice President Spiro T. Agnew in the campaign, Mrs. Johnson said: "He doesn't want to inject himself into it. Except for being a very concerned citizen and voting for the people in our own area and being quite earnest about trying to improve our own area, I do not foresee any activity."

Johnson did a little campaigning in his home state for Lloyd Bentsen, the Democrat running for the Senate in Texas against Republican Rep. George Bush.

While here promoting her book, Mrs. Johnson went to Maryland campaign parties "for two good friends of mine for whom I have high hopes." Her candidates are congressional hopeful Tom Boggs, son of long-time Johnson friend Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La., and a newcomer to politics running for the Maryland House of Delegates, Ruffin Maddox whose wife, Marcia, was on Mrs. Johnson's White House staff.

Asked to assess the effectiveness of campaigning by a first lady, veteran campaigner Lady Bird said:

"I think she naturally can be helpful speaking for her husband. She's the next thing to him. He can't be everywhere and since people do want to understand the man who is their leader, I think they have a feeling of being closer to him and understanding him and knowing more about him when they meet his wife.

"And I'm sure some of that must rub off on other candidates too."

Mrs. Johnson emphatically declared there were no regrets at all over her husband's decision not to run in 1968. "We gave it all we had," and she feels "satisfied enough" about those presidential years.

Mrs. Johnson said "I don't think there's a chance" a president can become isolated and surrounded by yes-men as has been suggested by former Johnson press secretary George Reedy.

"Nobody has such a barrage of information flung at him. And quite truly it is not all plaudits and friendly and hurrays. It's on the three faces of television (the three networks) and all that stack of papers lying on his bed that come in with his tea every morning.

"How can he fail to listen? He has his mail. A wise person, almost anybody, would feel it necessary to be attuned to that mail. I know Lyndon did. And then there are senators from both parties and loud voices proclaming their views. No, I don't think there's a chance."

Tulsa, K-State Probation

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Officials of the University of Tulsa, hit with a three-year football probation along with Kansas State by the National Collegiate Athletic Assn., contend "this sort of things will never happen again."

The NCAA's powerful executive council slapped the threeyear probations on the Golden Hurricanes and Kansas State Wednesday because of recruiting rules violations and giving improper financial aid to prospective athletes.

K-State and Tulsa will be on probation until Jan. 1, 1973, barring their football teams from post-season bowl games through that date.

The NCAA ruling confirmed investigations by the Big Eight and Missouri Valley conferences into recruiting irregularities.

Tulsa Athletic Director Glenn Dobbs said that he could "assure everyone that this sort of thing will never happen again at the University of Tulsa." Tulsa officials said they "don't like what has happened, but we accept the NCAA penalty."

There was no comment from Kansas State officials after NCAA announced the probation Wednesday.

The NCAA's committee on rules infractions also reviewed athletic practices at Marshall University in Huntington, W. Va. and LaSalle College in Philadelphia and restored them to full membership. Marshall was on a one-year probation for football recruiting rules violations in basketball recruiting.

Pat On The Back Award

As a couple of generations of fishermen know, the Shakespeare Company of Kalamazoo, Mich., makes equipment to lure and land The Big One. But the company also takes care of its leavings. The effluent leaving the company premises is so free from contamination it is completely pure. A large, colorful bluegill swimming in a tank of it is living testimony. Primary poisons removed from the effluent are acid and alkaline residues used in electroplating.

Successful Program

Forty years ago, you couldn't have hit a deer in Missouri wth an atomic bomb, had there been the bomb to begin with. There just weren't very many deer in Missouri -- about 500 in the mid-1930s.

When the Department of Conservation came into being in 1936, one of the first orders of business was to work to restore the deer herd.

How well the campaign has succeeded is easily seen in hunting statistics:

In 1969, gun hunters killed 23,265 deer in Missouri and bowhunters added another 619 for a grand total of 23,884 -- or 48 times the entire state population in the mid-thirties.

This season, Missourians will be hunting for the first time under a new management unit concept which should bring more hunting opporutnity to more hunters more frequently.

There will be 10 management units throughout the state during the Nov. 14-23 gun season. In the past, there have been three major units -- north Missouri, south Missouri and the St. Louis zone.

The advantage of breaking the state into smaller units is that hunting pressure can be more closely controlled. For example, the Department of Conservation in the past has alternated bucks - only and any-deer seasons in north Missouri because much of the area is heavily agricultural and can't stand repeated any-deer seasons.

But there are parts of north Missouri where deer populations are big enough to allow two or three successive any-deer seasons without serious loss to the deer herd.

Now the Department could open that unit to any-deer and keep the rest of north Missouri bucks-only.

A second advantage is that the management unit boundaries are along highways, rather than county lines. A county line may be an invisible line through the woods, but a highway is a visible boundary.

There will be eight any-deer units and two bucks - only units this fall. Units 1,2,3,7,8 and 9 will be any-deer Nov. 14-17 and bucks only Nov. 18-23. Units 5 and 6 will be any-deer Nov. 14-15 and bucks - only the rest of the season. Units 4 and 10 will be bucks only the entire season.

Units 1,2 and 3 are all of Missouri north of I-70. Unit four is the western prairie area south of I-70, north of I-44 and west of Mo. 13. Unit 5 is south of I-70, north of I-44, east of Mo. 13 and west of U.S. 63. Unit 6 is south of I-70, east of U.S. 63 to Rolla and Mo. 72 to Salem, north of Mo. 32 to Esther and U.S. 67 to Crystal City.

Unit 7 is south of I-44 and west of Mo. 38 from Marshfield to Hartville, then Mo. 5 to the Arkansas line. Unit 8 is east of that line, south of I-44 to Rolla, Mo. 72 to Salem and Mo. 32 to Esther and west of U.S. 67.

Unit 9 is east of U.S. 67 and north of U.S. 60 to Dexter and Mo. 25 to Dutchtown and Mo. 74 to Cape Girardeau. Unit 10 is everything south of Unit 9.

Expensive Deer

MARSHFIELD — Hunting out of season proved an expensive proposition for two Springfield men here Oct. 21 when Webster County Magistrate Judge Lewis Childress fined them the maximum $500 each for killing a doe on Oct. 11.

Four different conservation agents -- Jim Schroder and Jack Lilly of Green County, Foin Morrison of Webster County and Don Ross of Dallas County -- worked on the case.

The Missouri deer season is Nov. 14-23.

Defending Champs Move To Semi's

PARMA — The defending tournament champion, Lilbourn Panthers, flexed their offensive mucles last night on the way to eliminating Bernie 63-38 and moving into the semi-finals of the Third Annual jurnior varsity invitational basketball tourney.

Risco unended Campbell 51-45 behind a well balanced scoring attack that included three players in double figures, thus winning the right to face the Panthers in tonight's 8 p.m. semi-final match that follows the Parma-Matthews clash set for 6:30 p.m.

Utilizing its rebounding and speed on both offense and dcfense, coaching Larry Warren's LHS Panthers, roared into a commanding 33-12 halftime lead and played with reserves the second half.

Lilbourn placed 12-players in the scoring column with Hubrins pacing the squad with 12 points while Banks added 11 and McCraney 10. Bernie's Bill Dawson claimed high game honors with 21 points.

Swiney, Johnson and Meadows each netted 11 points in heading up the Risco scoring attack while Glen collected 11 to top Campbell's scoring.

Homecoming At SEMO Saturday

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Lincoln University, the last undefeated and untied team in the MIAA, provides the Homecoming opposition for Southeast Missouri State College at 1:30 p.m. Saturday (Oct. 31) at Houck Stadium.

The game marks the beginning of a new series, as the two teams have never before met. Lincoln was officially admitted to the MIAA about two years ago, but due to scheduling difficulties, just became eligible for conference championships in September.

And Coach Dwight Reed's Tigers are off on the right foot in the MIAA chase after winning their conference opener last Saturday against Northwest Missouri State College of Maryville, 27-17.

The Tigers, in compiling their sparkling 5-0 record this season, have also beaten Missouri Southern, Bemidji, Minn., State, Kentucky State, and Parsons College.

Tom Thrower, head coach at Southeast Missouri, described the four non- conference opponents as "tough competition."

Saturday's game is a must for Southeast Missouri, if the Indians are to retain any hopes for a fourth straight MIAA crown. The Indians successfully opened their conference season by beating Southwest Missouri State College of Springfield, 24-0. However, the following week they were set back 14-6 by Northeast Missouri State College of Kirksville, which is currently leading the league with a 2-0 record.

Besides Southwest Missouri, the Indians have only one other victory this season against four losses. The other win came last week by a 48-0 score over Bradley University, and the big margin of victory gave Indian followers a glimmer of hope for the remainder of the season.

The last time a Southeast Missouri team scored more than 48 points was in 1966 when the Indians downed the University of Missouri -- Rolla, 49-13. The last time they had a greater margin of victory than they did against Bradley was way back in 1952 when the late Kenneth Knox's gridders outclassed Bethel College, 61-0.

Coach Thrower is hoping the "big" win over Bradley will give his team both momentum and confidence as it goes into the contest with Lincoln.

"We're going to need everything we can get against LIncoln," said Thrower. 'They're a big team, they have speed and are very quick up front, both offensively and defensively, and they have great pursuit. You have to do things right to score on them."

Thrower said the Tigers, which began the year with 27 returning lettermen including the entire starting offensive line from last season, prefer to run, but will throw if necessary. "They do what they have to do to win," he said, "and apparently they are playing just well enough to win, much like our team of last year. They haven't really overwhelmed anybody."

Southeast Missouri should be in its best physical condition Saturday since early in the season. Bob Barclay (Mayfield, Ky.), a 250- pound tackle, is off the injury list, and "this should be a big asset to our ground game," said Thrower.

The Indian coach also noted that senior All- MIAA running back Al Holmes (St. Louis McCluer) is improving each day and will be alternated with freshman Richard Attig (Murphysboro, Ill.). "This will give us both speed and power in the backfield," he said.

Attig, who has replaced Holmes in the last several games, has jumped into the MIAA rushing lead with 7.4 yards averaged per carry. He has netted 305 yards in 41 attempts.

Lincoln's Fontez Dale (East St. Louis, Ill.), a freshman, is third in the loop with a 5.4 average per carry. He did not play last week, however.

Other Southeast Missouri players who have been injured but are expected to be hear or at full strength Saturday are sophomore linebacker Kim Godwin (Cape Girardeau Central), junior wingback Art Miller (Kirkwood), and junior fullback Eddie Moss (Poplar Bluff).

The Indians' leader in total offense is freshman quarterback Lance Brune (Cape Girardeau Central) who has accounted for all but 60 of his 774 total yards by passing.

However, nine Brune aerials have been picked off by Indian opponents, and Brune will be matching wits with the MIAA's top pass defender Saturday in sophomore Walter Jordon (Birgminham, Ala.). Jordan has intercepted five passes this fall and returned them for 96 yards and two touchdowns.

Lincoln's Chris Middleton (Houston, Texas), a senior, leads the MIAA with a 41.2 average. Southeast Missouri's Godwin is second in the league with a 40.3 average.

Best Advertising Considers Both Mice and Men

OXFORD, Miss. — If you build a better mousetrap no one will necessarily beat a path to your door.

In fact, many inventors have built better mousetraps which didn't sell. One company which failed to sell a new and better mousetrap was the Woodstream Corp., one of the world's largest makers of animal traps.

The new trap was designed scientifically to work more efficiently after a thorough study of the habits and eccentricies of mice. It was easy to set, caught more mice, and caused a minimum amount of suffering to the victim. Yet, women continued to buy the old- fashioned, spring trap.

One commentator said the company made a mistaken in only analyzing the habits of mice. "It didn't psychoanalyze the tastes of women. It is women and not mice that buy mice traps."

So it is with any product-- be it a mousetrap or an automobile. The mental attitude of the buyer is the determinant of the final sale.

As mice don't buy mousetraps, often the user of a product is not the buyer.

Women buy men's shirts. Men buy expensive perfumes. A wife is likely to buy her husband's luggage, his electric razor, and most of his ties. The husband is likely to buy the second automobile which his wife uses. A man is likely to pay $5.00 for a pipe; his wife may pay $15.00 for a gift pipe.

The best of advertising considers both mice and men. Or, more precisely, both user and buyer, and the fact that motivations of the two are different.

Dear Sir:

On Saturday, October 24, on television, Gary Rust initimated that since the liberal New Democratic Coalition endorsed Bill D. Burlison, he must be liberal. This is terribly misleading. Bill Burlison is as "middle- of- the- road" as a Congressman can be.

The 10th District- one of the 31 farm districts left in America - demands a Congressman especially fitted for the district; yet this man must be knowledgeable in all phases of American life, both urban as well as rural. He must be a man of moderation, a responsible man. Given the choice in this election we endorsed Bill Burlison. He has a fine record, he is running on it.

But there is another reason for this letter. The attacks on liberals by Agnew and others in this election are dishonest, they are grossly unfair. They get "our feathers up." The NDC is a proud organization. Our NDC boasts a chairman who gave 20 years to the American uniform, our vice- chairman spent years in uniform, our student chairman is a Vietnam veteran, our present ward chairman is an ex- Marine, our treasurer is a navy veteran -- and so it goes.

Liberals have made this country great. The truly giant Presidents have all been liberals: Jefferson, Jackson, Lincoln, Roosevelt, Truman, Kennedy -- they all had the courage to bring about the change that was needed. We liberals care about people, about America – and we know what violence is. Violence took our President in Dallas, it took another great leader in Los Angeles. We believe that violence is ended not by increasing the violence but by changing those conditions that create it: poverty, illiteracy, prejudice -- the conditions that create fear. We work to reduce the fear and the hate. And we work within and through the American system. And we attack political issues, not people.

The true liberal knows that liberty and justice go hand in hand.

The NDC is happy to have endorsed Marine veteran Bill D. Burlison. He is a good man who has given himself to his country. And he is an experienced man.

Now we ask -- can his opponent say the same?

Sincerely,
Allen O'Donnell
Chairman, New Democratic Coalition of Cape Girardeau County

Dear Mr. Blanton,

In view of the doubt prevalent in our local community, as we once again approach Halloween, about the actuality of the UNICEF funds helping children in less fortunate countries, as was the initial motivation behind UNICEF, the local UNICEF committee and the sponsoring organization, Church Women United of Sikeston, would greatly appreciate having you publish the enclosed speech of Senator Chas. Percy of Illinois, taken from the Congressional Record of August 3, 1970, in its entirety, space permitting, whose reaction, in the final analysis, should be the deciding factor in the fate of the UNICEF program of the future.

Thank You.

UNICEF—THE UNITED NATIONS CHILDREN'S FUND
SPEECH OF
HON. CHARLES H. PERCY
OF ILLINOIS
IN THE SENATY OF THE UNITED STATES
Monday, August 3, 1970

Mr. PERCY. Mr. President, over the years I have been greatly impressed with the accomplishments of the United Nations Children's Fund. It has been able to do a great deal of good for millions of children and mothers with a relatively small amount of money. It seems useful to examine how and why these achievements have been possible. Perhaps lessons can be discovered in such a review which would be valuable to all of us as we search for solutions to the problems of our time.

I note, for example, that UNICEF requires that a country must be willing to help itself to be eligible for UNICEF assistance. The people of the country contribute to the program in whatever way they can participate. Thus they learn to help themselves. They are eager to learn what they can do to improve the lot of their children as UNICEF shows them how they themselves may build for the future. UNICEF is not a charity in the usual sense of the term, but is rather a common sense program to teach willing learners to help themselves so that they may take pride in their own accomplishments.

UNICEF reaches for fundamentals in its stress on teaching mothers how to care for their children - how to prevent infectious diseases from spreading through ignorance of the principles of hygiene, and the importance of a nutritious diet to the health and mental development of the oncoming generation of children. it has been said that to educate a woman is to educate the whole family; many millions of families face a brighter future because of UNICEF's vision.

I am aware, however, that the work of the Children's Fund is not as widely understood by the American people as it deserves to be. In some instances, it has been the target of serious misrepresentations that have raised questions in the minds of sincere citizens who may not know how to obtain the facts for themselves. I, therefore, invite the attention of Senators and the American people to a description of the way the U.N. Children's Fund functions. I ask unanimous consent that it be printed in the Record.

There being no objection, the description was ordered to be printed Record, as follows:

DESCRIPTION OF UNITED NATIONS CHILDREN'S FUND PURPOSE AND PHILOSOPHY

UNICEF is one of the family of United Nations agencies assisting developing nations. As the sole organization within the United Nations system to focus on children, it is unique. Its major objective is to co-operate with developing countries as they strive to improve the conditions of their children and young people and prepare them to contribute to their societies.

UNICEF emphasizes the need to give high priority to children and adolescents in national plans. It participates in projects, upon request by developing countries, by giving material assistance largely in the form of supplies and equipment and by helping governments find effective ways of improving services for their children.

At the beginning of the 1970's, the UN's second Decade of Development, there is a new awareness of the importance of human resources in economic development and a recognition that the ultimate aim of progress is not things, but people. AS Henry R. Labouisse, the Executive Director of UNICEF, recently stated, "... human resources, whose importance to development is at last being recognized, do not simply arrive on the scene well prepared and of sound mind and body. They require deliberate preparation, certainly as youth, but actually from the earliest possible moment." With this point of view, the Children's Fund urges no separate plan solely for children but, rather, an extension of governments' plans to include concern for the protection and preparation of children to enable them to lead useful lives.

ORIGIN OF UNICEF

Today, while UNICEF's focus is children in the developing world, the organization began in a more limited context. Known originally as the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund, UNICEF was created to alleviate the suffering of children in the aftermath of World War II. Former President Herbert Hoover was appointed by President Truman in 1946 to head a survey mission which recommended that the U.S. Government suppor the creation of a United Nations Body to meet the emergency needs of children in countries devastated by war. On December 11, 1946. UNICEF was established by the United Nations General Assembly.

During its first years UNICEF concentrated on providing material assistance to children of the war- ravaged countries of Europe. In 1950 the UN General Assembly continued UNICEF's mandate, but with a new direction: to assist programs of long range benefit to children in less developed countries. In 1953 this mandate was continued indefinitely and the name of the organization was changed to the United Nations Children's Fund.

TYPES OF UNICEF-AIDED PROJECTS

The specific kinds of projects assisted depend on the priority needs of children in an individual countries requesting UNICEF's assistance. In general, UNICEF- aided projects are in the field of health, nutrition, education, social services and pre- vocational training. These include assistance to health services for mothers andchildren, disease prevention and control, environmental sanitation, applied nutrition, milk processing, development of low-cost protein food concentrates, teacher training or refresher training, local production of teaching materials, teaching of science and practical skills, day-care and training in women's activities. While emergency aid is no longer a major part of UNICEF's work, it is provided when not sufficently available from other sources.

Training of national personnel is at the core of most projects in all fields; about 30% of assistance is devoted to training within the assisted country. Such a policy helps to assure the continuation of benefits to children after UNICEF's own participation has terminated.

Contrary to some popular misunderstandings, UNICEF does not give money to the governments for procurement. What UNICEF provides covers a wide range- from medical supplies for children's health services to production equipment for milk processing and weaning foods. In addition, some scholarships are given for nationals being trained in UNICEF- assisted projects.

The first Executive Director, Maurice Pate, an American citizen, served from UNICEF's inception to his death in 1965. His successor, the present Executive Director, Henry R. Labouisse, is also a citizen of the United States, and a former U.S. Ambassador to Greece.

In the last five years UNICEF's dollar expenditures in the United States have been higher than its income from sources within the United States (governmental and private), due to contributions in United States currency made by more than twenty other governments.

The impetus for UNICEF's work, today as in its emergency beginnings, is the knowledge that, throughout the world, millions of children suffer. "Every half minute, 100 children are born in developing countries. Twenty of them will die within the year. Of the 80 who survive, 60 will have no access to modern medical care during their childhood.

Of those who live to school age, only a little more than half will ever set foot in a classroom, and less than 4 out of 10 of those who do enter will complete the elementary grades. This situation is especially disturbing when we realize that three quarters of all the world's children under 15 years of age — over a billion children -live in developing countries."

A child's needs must be met today. Tomorrow may be too late.

Wilde Thinks Ecology Can Sell Tickets

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Can ecology sell tickets at the box office?

Cornel Wilde thinks so. MGM hopes so. The film company backed him to the tune of $1.3 million to produce and direct "No Blade of Grass," which tells a horror tale of the 1970s; what happens when pollution takes over.

This is Wilde's seventh film as a producer-director, the first in which he does not appear. He starred himself in the previous ones "Storm Fear," "The Naked Prey," "Beach Red".

"For this picture I didn't want to use easily recognizable faces," he explained. "I wanted to have a documentary flavor, a feeling that this world tragedy could be happening."

And it can happen here, Wilde is convinced. The basis of his tale:

It is in England, four or five years from now. World famine has been caused by pollution: a virus mutation has wiped out all grass and grain. China has bombed half of its population so that the other half might have a chance of survival. Human life has virtually ended in South America.

London is being closed down; it can no longer support life. Citizens flee to the countryside, where roving bands maraud, seeking food.

Fantastic? Unbelievable?

"I don't think so," insists Wilde. "Look at the fungus that destroyed so much of our corn crop this summer. Look at Pensacola Bay, where millions of fish died from lack of oxygen. Look at Lake Erie, which is totally dead. How do you bring a dead lake back to life?

"Look at ... "

Wilde is well-stocked with examples of rampant pollution. "I started getting interested in ecology when I read Rachel Carson's 'Silent Spring'," he said. "At that time I, like nearly everyone else, thought that she had overdramatized her theme. No one then could imagine that our environment could undergo such severe damage.

Homecoming Parade at State Saturday

CAPE GIRARDEAU — The several thousand people who will line both sides of Broadway a main thoroughfare, Saturday morning for the annual homecoming parade of Southeast Missouri State College will be treated to an extravagazna of marching bands, artistic floats, and pretty girls.

The parade will begin at Capaha Park and wind up at Main Street.

Heading the list of bands in the parade is the famed Golden Eagles Marching Band of Southeast Missouri State, which will perform in January at the Super Bowl in Miami.

The Golden Eagles will follow the color guard and parade marshall in the parade line- up. Shortly behind the college band will be the Homecoming queen, who will be crowned Friday night during a concert at Houck Field House.

Four other band from Cape Girardeau schools will also participate in the parade. They are from Central Senior High School, Central Junior High, Louis J. Schultz School, and Notre Dame High Scho-l.

Other bands which will march include those from Clearwater High, Piedmont; Bell City; St. Francois R-3 High, Flat River; Potosi R-3; Clarkton; Anna- Jonesboro, Ill.; Puxico; Thomas W. Kelly High, Benton; Scott County Central, Morley; Steelville; Parkway Central High in St. Louis County; and Parkway West Senior High in St. Louis County.

Three classes of floats appear in the parade, and first and second place tophies will be given in each class. The winners will be chosen by a panel of five judges, who will base their decision partly on how well the float adheres to this year's Homecoming theme, "Stargazer '70."

In addition, for the first time, the parade marshal will personally pick a favorite float and a trophy will be awarded to the organization which constructed it. This year's parade marshal is Mrs. Mary Helen Flentge, associate dean of students.

Class A floats are constructed on tractor- trailers, and Class B floats are built on pick- up trucks or farm tractors. Class C floats are decorated automobiles. Six floats are entered in he Class A category. Most were constructed through the joint efforts of a social sorority and social fraternity.

In addition to the float competition, there are several other categories of competition revolving around house decorations and banners promoting Homecoming spirit.

There will be separate contests for large on- campus living units, small on- campus living units,and small off- campus living units. There is also contest for student organizations which have their own buildings and a separate contest for student organizations without buildings.

Science in Your Life

By Bob Jones

Missouri Agricultural Experiment Station -- UMC

HOW a large organization can move quickly to mobilize its manpower and research resources to tackle a new problem was demonstrated recently when Southern Corn Leaf Blight struck Missouri. In all the nation, probably only the land grant universities had the facilities to meet this problem.

At the Univesity of Missouri, Dean of Agriculture Elmer R. Kiehl promptly named a committee to develop a plan for giving leadership to Extension and research efforts in the corn leaf blight battle. The committee is headed by plant pathologist Einar Palm and includes plant breeder Marcus Zuber.

This action group also includes specialists in agricultural engineering, agronomy, animal husbandry, agricultural economics, weather, and communications. Members of this committee are the scientists or are colleagues of the scientists who will be working n the fields and the laboratories to protect the Missouri economy, both rural and urban, from the devastation of the blight which has hurt this state's most important cash crop.

The efforts of the UMC staff members to conquer this new problem as quickly as possible and their use of the latest research from every possible source are further examples of the importance of science ir your life.

You've heard it said, when you stop smoking your food will taste much better and you'll put on weight. Five Temple University School of Medicine researchers have a different answer. Smokers who stop smoking can expect lowering of their metabolic rate and a resulting weight gain, even if their food intake remains the same, they report.

Would you start your self-propelled lawn mower and turn it loose? A firm in Tonawada, N.Y., has developed a product called Mowbot that you handle just that way.

As owner, you determine the outside boundaries of the area to be mowed, using a buried wire that emits a signal that can be detected by the machine's electronic sensors. In the same way you protect trees and other fixed objects. The sensor that receives the signal turns the mower away from the wire at an angle that differs from the angle of approach.

The mower will crisscross the lawn at random, taking nearly twice as long as if guided by an efficient human. However, it eventually will mow the entire area while you are free to do other chores or watch TV or take a nap.

New evidence of the way the various phases of growth and development are coordinated has come from research on corn borers in the UMC College of Agriculture's department of entomology.

David Jacob and G. M. Chippendale found that corn borers failed to develop well or developed slowly when growing in total darkness. When there were periods of regular light and dark the larvae did much better.

One interpretation that the researchers give to this phenomenon is that rhythmic enviornmental conditions serve to synchronize the various physiological phases. In constant environmental conditions, these phases can get out of time with one another, resulting in lower growth rates.

Forty-five per cent of the post doctoral students in U.S. universities and other institutions are from outside the U.S., according to a report published by the National Academy of Sciences. Because of their training (Ph.D.), ability, and position, such students play a major role in the day to day science of the U.S.

The perfect birth control method, is the way some scientists have described it. They were talking about applications of hormonelike prostaglandins, a family of some 14 members which have been identified so far.

Dr. Reimert Ravenholt of the Office of Population in the Agency for International Development has cited studies with Swedish women using prostaglandins as their only means of birth control. He said the results show that "Something has finally come along that is very close to a non-toxic, self administerable, completely effective, one-a-month contraceptive that can be used with the practice of hindsight."

In the Swedish studies, the women are given infusions of prostaglandins only if their menstrual periods are delayed by more than two days and they have positive pregnancy tests. Results have been 100 percent effective so far.

A number of scientists who met recently in New York to discuss the prostaglandins believe that they have a fantastic future. In addition to their use in birth control, they have been used to bring on labor or to produce abortion early in pregnancy.

The scientists also believe that they will eventually prove effective in control of blood pressure, prevention and treatment of gastric ulcers and blood clots, and treatment of such diverse difficulties as male infertility, asthma, and nasal congestion.

Armed Forces

CW3 Robert R. Vaughan, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Vaughan of 410 Shady Lane, is in Vietnam again. While he was there three years ago, he wrote a column titled Vietnam Montage which was published in the Daily Standard.

He recently wrote his parents of the death of a good friend in a helicopter accident. Since they went over there together, and were roommates, he was shaken by his friend's death.

It inspired him to write a poem:

The Twenty I Have Known
Sometimes at night shrouded
By mist and distorted by pain,
I see their faces again.

And their voices call accusingly
To me in my bed, and they ask,
"Why is it that you aren't dead?"

"We who laughed and drank together
As we both drew breath -- should we
Not lay together now, in eath?"

I sit up in my sleep
And with an anguished cry,
Shout "NO--- I don't want to die!"

But they smile -- No, it is not
Evil. Each of the twenty dead was my friend.
And they say, "Your life too, will end."

"But not here, oh God!"
"Please." I pray
"Allow me peace until my Judgement Day."

And mercifully, I awaken
And the twenty are gone.
Their voices have left, but the memory stays on.

They were men like myself,
Caught up in this monstrous life,
And without noble cause or reason, they were forced to die.

Mrs. Vaughan sent a copy of this poem to her mother in Jackson, Miss., and a niece, Miss Sheila Renolds, read it. It struck a responsive chord in her. She wrote a reply which she sent to her cousin in Vietnam:

That They Have
Not Died in Vain

These twenty men, your martyred friends
Whose lives were senseless taken,
Live on in thoughts, in minds, and hearts,
No memory forsaken.

These selfless men, whose only sin
Was freedom's way of life,
Gave all they had, their lives. It's sad,
For such a senseless strife.

But if you can, remember them,
The brave men that they were,
And take heart. They did their part
To make our lives secure.

So now recall, these twenty all,
Who lost, that we might gain.
Remember them as honored men,
And they will not have died in vain!

Those who read Vietnam Montage may remember that the recovery helicopter that Vaughn was on when the recovery missions were made, was named in honor of Sheila Kay, because of her successful efforts in sending thousands of books to Vietnam for the men to read.

The helicopter Miss Sheila Kay, was destroyed when it landed on a mine while on a recovery mission, the crew was spared serious injuries.

Letter to the Editor
Sikeston Standard
Sikeston, Missouri

Dear Mr. Blanton:

Another election day will be here Tuesday, and up to now it seems to me that things have been sorta quiet in this neck of the woods. I wonder if the voters realize that more than ever before we need to go to the polls and vote. With our World in the condition that it is in today all of us need to take a stand for what we believe.

Much mud slinging has been done, and many accusations have been made in our State and Congressional Districts. I admire the way our Democrat Candidates have in most part considered the source and risen above it.

It is nice from time to time to have opponents to point out the deficiencies in our State Government. Since every one is prone to make mistakes they can be better analyzed and corrected when seen from an objective view.

Missouri could never have achieved its place of greatness in our Nation today if it was being run by the shiftless, unconcerned, crooked, lying, stealing bunch of politicians as described by our Mr. Danforth, Mr. Rust, and Mr. Bond. It is nice to know that Missouri has achieved its Greatness in spite of people who like to run it down.

I came to Missouri in 1937 and worked for less than $15.00 a week. Missouri has given me an opportunity to grow, to educate my children in the best schools in the Nation, and to be a part of it. For this I am grateful.

If my history books do not deceive me this has been done by the Democrats. I hope the voters in our districts go to the polls Tuesday and keep it that way.

Yours truly,
Lloyd Hogan

HOW DO YOU COOL IT on a hot, humid summer afternoon? The answer among young people at least, seems to be universal—find running water. If you're in a small community like Northampton, Mass., there's the spillway of a flood-control dam (bottom right). If you're in a metropolis like Rome (top) or Toronto, Canada (bottom left), there are fountains.

QUICK QUIZ

Q—What do the initials L.P.N. on the sleeve of a nurse's uniform indicate?

A—The letters indicate that she is a licensed practical nurse.

Q—Why are oysters of a certain kind called blue points?

A—Blue point oysters were originally so called from Blue Point, a village on Long Island near which oysters of a small variety were found in natural beds.

Q—What fish builds a nest much the way a bird does?

A—The four-spined stickleback, which weaves portions of water plants into a sort of basket, using growing stalks as the framework. After the female lays her eggs, the male roofs it over.

KERSHNER-ROWE COMMENTARY

Howard Kershner Edward Rowe

Imperishable words of Edmund Burke

Edmund Burke left us imperishable words of wisdom. So long as men seek to better their condition in life and reform their societies' institutions, they should turn again to Burke. Almost alone at first among the men of stature in his day, he foresaw the great evils inherent in the French Revolution and the ultimate horrors it would lead to. The following passage is from his political classic, "REFLECTIONS ON THE REVOLUTION IN FRANCE." Most of our civil turmoil today follows exactly the same radicalism that issued in the Jacobinism of Burke's time.

"Rage and frenzy will pull down more in half an hour than prudence, deliberation and foresight can build up in a hundred years. The errors and defects of old establishments are visible and plain to the mind. It calls for little ability to point them out, and where absolute power is given, it requires but a word to wholly abolish the vice and the establishment with it.

"At once to perserve and to reform is quite another thing. When the useful parts of an old establishment are kept and what is superadded is to be fitted to what is retained, then these are to be exercised: a vigorous mind, steady persevering attention, various powers of comparison and combination, and the resources of an understanding that is fruitful in those things which are apts and advisable.

"If circumspection and caution are a part of wisdom when we work only upon inanimate matter, surely they become a part of duty, too, when the object of our demolition and construction is not brick and timber but living, feeling beings. The true lawgiver ought to have a heart full of sensibility. He ought to love and respect his kind, and to fear himself.

"Political arrangement, as it is a work for social ends, is to be wrought by social means. There, mind must counsel with mind. Time is required to produce that union of minds which alone can bring forth all good we aim at. Our patience will achieve more than our force. I should tell you that in my course I have known and, according to my measure, have co-operated with great men; I have never yet seen any plan which has not been mended by the observations of those who were much inferior in understanding to the person who took the lead in the business.

These words of a great conservative and reformer are more timely in this hour than ever before.

The Prayer

Father, . . . not my will, but thine, be done. (Luke 22:42)

PRAYER: O God, we regret the passing of the years when we failed to accept Thy guidance. Give us the faith to trust fully in Thee this day and the courage needful for obedience to Thy will. In the spirit of Christ. Amen.

Dirt Blanket Found Fixed Over Boston

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) — A research agency that has been taking air samples over the East Coast since 1967 has discovered a fixed blanket of dirt particles hanging over Boston. The forces that keep it intact defy wind and rain, according to the study.

Results of research were made public by the Charles D. Sias Laboratories of Brookline.

The study took spot samples of air over Boston three times a day, five times a week beginning in 1967. Color photographs of the Boston skyline were used to show smog and cloud formations. Wind direction, force, humidity and barometric pressure were also recorded.

By 1969, the research team suspected some unusual formation in the atmosphere. Scrutiny showed that enough material was being discharged into the air to form a large mass of small inert particles.

The mass is so dense, said researcher William A. Curby, that it is unaffected by the rain and is seldom broken up or dispersed. The cohesiveness comes from forces greater than the earth's gravity, Curby said.

Wind from the east has always been considered a cleansing agent in Boston, bringing in cool, clean air from over the ocean. The study shows it also brings back the pollutant dirt particles.

It rarely moves more than a few miles off shore. The debris concentration is now so dense it shows signs of altering major weather patterns to create "high and low bursts," very good weather for a number of days followed by several days of bad weather.

Service Award to Cairo Hospital

CAIRO, Ill. — St. Mary's Hospital here has received a distinguished service award from the Illinois Hospital Association.

The hospital was cited for "dedication to continued service to its community in a time of rapid and disturbing social change."

St. Mary's Hospital shares the award - the first to be presented by the associaton - with Bethany Brethren - Garfield Park Hospital in Chicago.

The Cairo hospital, staffed by the Sisters of the Sacred Cross, has served the area for more than 100 years. The Roman Catholic order arrived in Cairo during the Civil War to nurse both Union and Confederate sick and wounded.

Despite a growing financial problem and community racial disturbances, St. Mary's hospital, which opened in 1867, is planning to expand its geriatric facilities, enlarged its emergency room and start a mental health care program as well as open an outpatient clinic.

The hospital operates at about 65 per cent occupancy with six physicians on the staff, all of whom are in general practice.

Sister Joan Marie is administrator of the hospital.

Church May Be Sold To Pay Minister

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

The Rev. Smyth carried but his ministerial duties with an air of despair. And, he had good reason for it. His parish was so poor it couldn't even support a countrymouse no less the Rev. Smyth.

In fact, after awhile, most of the Reverands prayer were to receive his back salary. Finally, however, he stopped praying and demanded his money outright. When it wasn't forthcoming, he took the matter to court.

"I haven't been paid in 6 months," he told the judge. "And since the only asset possessed by the church is the church, I demand that it be ordered sold so that I can be paid."

"Only the devil himself would suggest such a thing," responded the horrified parish members. "Without a church, people might lose their ways to the Kingdom of Heaven."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you direct the sale of a church to pay the minister?

This is how the judge rules: YES! The judge held that while it might be an "energetic" measure to take, a church may be sold to pay its debts where there are no other assets out of which to pay them. Wages owed to a minister, conluded the judge, is a debt which the church may be sold.

Based upon an 1890 Georgia Supreme Court Decision.

Hearings on Cemetery Bill Announced

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Missouri's Tenth District United States Representative Bill D. Burlison today stated that he had been notified by the house committee on veterans' affairs that hearings would be held before the first of the year on his bill providing for a national cemetery in the 10th Congressional District. Provisions in the bill call for the Secretary of the Army to designate the site. The Secretary of the Army would also be responsible for the administration and upkeep if such a cemetery were established.

Congressman Burlison stated that there are at present only three National Cemeteries located in Missouri; one in St. Louis, one in JeffersonCity and one in the Springfield area.

The Representative noted his friendship with Chairman Olin "Tiger" Teague (Texas) of the Veterans' Affairs Committee. Congressman Teague is a much decorated veteran of the Second World War.

The Congressman stated that "Though my opponent criticized and ridiculed the bill in his newspaper, "The Bulletin" on April 11, 1969, prior to his being a candidate for U.S. Congressman, I am hopeful that now he might announce support for the legislation." Burlison who served 3½ years in the United States Marine Corps offered as a possible explanation for his opponent's opposition to the legislation his lack of understanding of the need for such a project in this district. "His failure to serve in the Armed Forces may account for his lack of concern and understanding for this much needed project," Burlison remarked.

The Representative further pointed out that many Veterar organizations had contacted him after introduction of the legislation, urging passage of the bill. Burlison noted that he had heard of no opposition to such legislation.

Show & Tell

As I sat watching Patton's piercing eyes glaring down on me, I got the distinct impression that I should put my popcorn down and salute- that's the kind of film PATTON is.

The Malco is now playing what I believe to be the best things (PATTON and MASH) that have hit this town since indoor plumbing.

George C. Scott is a genius in his portrayal of the strange, distant, authoritative Patton. A firm believer in reincarnation, Patton was a hero - villian, a goodguy- badguy, and satan - saint, all wrapped into one.

Gen. George S. Patton was perhaps the most controversial leader of WWII. His unorthodox behavior brought him fleeting glory, but at the same time brought him condemnation from his superiors.

Patton was the pure warrior- profanely religious, utterly outspoken, a masterpiece of a war machine.

The movie is however more than a historical documentary of Patton's life. It gets much deeper into human nature and the politics of war. You come out of the movie loving Patton and hating politicians, but that's not unusual is it.

I found the movie to be very sad especially when Patton is forced to "play the game" as he says. It's amazing how his fight with politicians parellels what is happening today. Unfortunately the outcome is often the same.

When you go to see PATTON, don't miss looking carefully at Patton's dog. It is the funniest looking creature that I have ever seen. It strangely resembles a girl I use to date.

P.S. - Some loyal reader found my button last week, but now I have misplaced my coat.

Bones Identified As Belonging to Mental Patient

FULTON, Mo. (AP)— Human bones found in a wooded area have been identified tentatively as those of a mental patient who walked away from Fulton State Hospital April 10, 1965.

Two bow hunters, Carrol Holloway and Bob Chiles, stumbled on a skull Oct. 19 next to a fence row in a wooded area called Dark Hollow. They reported their find to Sheriff Ted Salmons of Callaway County, who later found the rest of the skeleton about 100 feet downhill.

Coroner Gene Maupin said a check of hospital records and x rays indicated the skeleton was that of Sam Williams, who had been sent to the hospital in 1940 from the state penitentiary, where he was serving a sentence for felonious assault.

Baker Says Prayer Rider Not Bid to Kill Women's Rights

WASHINGTON (PA) — The public school prayer amendment recently approved by the Senate was not offered as an effort to kill the women's rights amendment, says its author, Sen. Howard H. Baker, R-Tenn.

The Senate earlier this month approved Baker's proposal to permit nondenominational prayer in schools by a 50-20 vote. It had been offered as an amendment to a proposal to amend the constitution to guarantee equal rights for women.

Some supporters of the women's rights measure have suggested that opponents were seeking to kill it by loading it down with amendments.

The proposal will be before the Senate when it returns next month after the election recess but proponents aren't too optimistic over its prospects.

Combat Casualties Hit 4.5 -Year Low

SAIGON (AP) — The allied commands today reported 43 Americans killed in action last week, scattered fighting in Cambodia with 44 enemy troops killed in one clash and sharp curtailment in American air attacks in Vietnam due to a storm.

Another 279 Americans were wounded last week, and a U.S. spokesman said the total of 322 American casualties was the lowest since March 5, 1966. The total of 43 dead was three more than the week before, but the spokesman said it was the fourth consecutive week that U.S. battlefield deaths were below 50, the first time this had occurred since September-October 1965.

Another 38 American servicemen died last week from accidents or illness, the U.S. Command said, raising total American casualties in the war since Jan. 1, 1961, to 43,904 killed in action, 8,730 dead from accidents or illness, and 291,024 wounded.

South Vietnamese headquarters reported 215 of its troops killed in action last week and 625 wounded, and the U.S. Command said allied forces killed 1,484 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong. The South Vietnamese tolls were Saigon's lowest since mid-September; the enemy toll was 327 more than claimed the week before.

The U.S. Command said American forces experienced only light combat activity during the past 24 hours, with field reports indicating no Americans killed in action.

American air activity dropped to one of its lowest levels of the war because of tropical storm Louise's 58-mile-an-hour winds. Only 21 fighter-bomber strikes were flown from 8 a.m. Wednesday to 8 a.m. today. Planes were moved from two coastal bases, but the storm blew itself out today, and normal operations were expected Friday.

The storm had no effect on the Air Force's high-altitude B52 bombers, which for the 20th consecutive day pounded the Ho Chi Minh trail through southeastern Laos. Authoritative sources said the volume of North Vietnamese supplies moving along the jungle network is 50 per cent greater than last year.

In the ground war, the 6,000man South Vietnamese task force operating in the Fish Hook region of Cambodia about 80 miles north of Saigon clashed Wednesday with North Vietnamese troops along Route 7. The South Vietnamese said they killed 44 of the enemy and captured six weapons. South Vietnamese casualties were one killed and 36 wounded.

Enemy attacks also were reported on South Vietnamese forces 15 miles northeast of Phnom Penh and on Cambodian forces 45 miles southwest and 35 miles west of the capital, but they did not appear to be serious.

SMOKE AND WATER DAMAGE at the front of the Parma Variety Store after it was engulfed by fire at 7 p.m. last night. Firemen from Parma, Malden, and Risco fought the blaze for three hours before bringing it under control.

Fire Strikes at Parma

PARMA — Firemen, assisted by the Malden and Risco fire departments, battled for three hours last night before extinguishing a fire that started at 7 p.m. in the rear of a variety store and spread to an adjacent vacant building.

Faulty electrical wiring is suspected as the cause. It is reported the fire started in a partition near the ceiling. The upper level of the variety store was butted by the flames and the lower section had extensive smoke and water damage.

Due to the illness of the owner and operator, Mrs. Leola Garner, the store had been closed for a week.

About one fourth of an adjoining building, including the roof and rear wall, were destroyed atMitchell Cafe, south of the vacant building.

City Marshal "Doc" Lindley praised the assistance given by the Malden and Risco fire departments. He said "they saved that side of town."

Red China Reaches for U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — All the evidence indicates that Communist China is trying to come out of its isolationist shell and establish normal relations with other nations in the world. But after years marked by mutual lack of trust, the task is not going to be easy for the Red giant, and this year -- once again -- she is expected to be rejected for membership in the United Nations.

In last year's vote, 48 members of the United Nations favored letting down the barriers for Red China -- four more than the previous year. Fifty-six opposed it, two fewer than in 1968; and there were 21 abstentions, a drop of two from the year before.

Two of the nations that abstained from the balloting last year were Italy and Belgium, both of which had been staunch U.S. allies in opposing admission for Red China. Both have been negotiating with Peking for over a year on the possibility of diplomatic recognition.

The two Western nations are believed to be a bit closer to agreement with Red China on recognition now that Canada has announced it will exchange ambassadors with the mainland government and withdraw diplomatic recognition from the Taipei government of Nationalist China.

One of the big stumbling blocks in the way of a diplomatic exchange between Canada and Red China in the past was believed to be Canada's attitude toward Communist Chinese membership in the United Nations. Now that diplomatic recognition is a reality, it's not yet known just how Canada will vote this year on the China question.

In addition to the votes of Italy, Belgium and Canada, other question marks this year are the votes of Bolivia, Peru and Chile, all of which have demonstrated marked swings to the left during the past year. In last year's balloting, Bolivia and Peru were opposed to Red Chinese admission, and Chile abstained.

In the first vote ever taken on the issue, in 1950, admission for Communist China was rejected by a vote of 33 to 6 The closest was in 1965, when the vote was a 47-47 tie.

As it did last year, the United States is prepared to sponsor a resolution which would declare the issue important enough to require a two-thirds majority for approval. That resolution, which could prove ciritical eventually in barring Communist China from admission to the world body, was approved last year by a vote of 71-38 with four abstentions.

With 45 nations now recognizing Red China and the number promising to grow in the future, however, many observers see it as only a question of time before there will be a Red Chinese mission to the U.N. in New York.

Jewel Allen Rounding Out Career Aiding People

By LEO SCHADE

Mrs. Jewell Allen is believed to be known by more men, women and children, in and around Sikeston than most residents-- and rightly so. She has befriended thousands, both white and black.

She has been secretary and treasurer to two organizations 17 years, the Community Welfare Office and the United Fund.

On Nov. 17 "Miss Jewell" will resign from the United Fund at the end of this year's fund raising campaign. She has served under 17 different chairmen, three years after its founding.

She will resign from the Welfare Center July 31.

It was by accident that she became associated with two associations. In the early fall of 1953 she was asked by Mayor Charles Butler, who was chairman of the Sikeston Community Chest, if she would serve as executive secretary of the chest drive as well as the Community Welfare office secretary. The Chest was the United Fund predecessor.

Her answer:

"I believe I will, and it will give me a chance to change from my teaching career."

She changed from a teaching career of 37 years to one that would take her through 17 years in caring for unfortunate persons, distressed and disabled.

Her teaching career included 21 at Miner Switch, Salcedo and her final eight years at Crowder.

She recalls her teaching vividly, when she said, "at Miner Switch we lost two school buildings. A tornado blew one away, and the second burned down, after which they built a two- room school."

She graduated from Cape Girardeau Teachers College.

"Changing my vocation was a challenge to me, but I enjoyed every minute of it, and will retain many fond memories in both positions," Mrs. Allen said.

"In the Community Welfare office work, I tried to supplement for people what the Scott County Welfare office was unable to give immediately. I remember a case in point when a man came to the office and asked for the price to obtain a truck chauffeur's license ($11.50), as he had a job awaiting, after he had been out of work a long time. He was given the money.

"In all these 17 years, I recall only once where a recipient offered to repay a loan for travel expense and several meals to return to Pennsylvania. After three years she wrote and said she could return the amount.

Mrs. Allen said there were occasions when persons would be rude. "Once I was alone when a man came in and asked for a donation," she recalled. "We had no money and I refused, after which he jumped to his feet and threatened me with a knife. Certainly I was scared, and reached for a knife and the telephone at the same time, when a business neighbor passed by and saw what was going on."

"The welfare office began with a budget of $7,500, and over the many years advanced gradually, but today stands at $9,300 of our United Fund."

The welfare office takes nine months of her year and about three months are devoted to the United Fund. Welfare funds are expended for food, clothing, travel, drugs, rent, dental and medical bills.

Race is no barrier in welfare work. On one occasion a small boy had a kidney ailment and a physician made arrangements in a neighboring hospital. A benefactor stood by but the operation was paid by office funds. Many patients are transported to the cancer hospital in Columbia, and the hospital refunds the cost if its funds are not depleted.

'We approve many children for paid school lunches and contribute items in case of fires and other losses, including a number in the rural areas," Mrs. Allen said.

As executive secretary of the United Fund, her duties are many. Records are made of all contributions, agencies and the working groups must be coordinated. Each year problems increase as do requests of benefitting agencies.

Besides her working duties over more than 50 years, she is active in the Murray Lane Baptist church, she has taught an adult Sunday school class since 1929.

She was born in Cave- in - Rock, Ill., near Golconda, daughter of J. H. and Della J. Tyer.

Her father farmed in the Canalou area many years until he decided to move to Sikeston and became a partner in the Pinnell Mercantile company on Front street. He later entered the grocery business on Malone avenue. He died in 1936.

Mrs. Allen lives at 515 South Kingshighway with her 99- year-oldsmother.

She is proud of her two children, a son, Lt. Col retired, Paul David Allen, Arlington, Va., and a daughter, Mrs. James O. Kelley, of Sikeston, four grandsons and three great-grandchildren.

Her retirement plans are indefinite.

MRS. JEWELL ALLEN, records United Fund receipts at her office on 111 North Scott St.She has served as fund secretary- treasurer 17 years.

Berry Denies Invited Self

Edward H. Berry, a certified public accountant, and Robert Hearnes, a certified public accountant in Charleston, both Democrats, have been involved in the contest for the state auditor's office between incumbent Democrat Haskell Holman and Republican Christopher "Kit" Bond.

Berry and Hearnes were accused of inviting themselves to a meeting of the Public Affairs Council of Missouri CPAs Sept. 28 in Springfield to apply pressure on accountants who had issued a report showing inconsistencies in operations of Holman's office.

In a prepared statement Berry replied to statements of Max Myers, former state representative from Springfield, who is chairman of a state committee to elect Bond.

In Wednesday's Kansas City Star and the Springfield News Leader, Myers accuses Berry and Hearnes of "personally" inviting themselves to the Springfield CPA meeting to apply the "pressure."

Berry said "this is a deliberate misstatement of the facts by Myers."

He explained they were invited to the meeting by Thomas E. Miles, a CPA from Kennett, who made the invitation for Frank L. Pelot Jr., of St. Louis, who is chairman of the Public Affairs Council of Missouri CPAs. Berry said Miles called "us" and asked if we would attend the meeting, and then "Miles flew us to and from Springfield in his personal airplane."

Berry said the meeting was called by Pelot to discuss possible legislation to be introduced this year.

Berry said two accountants were present whose names had been used in connection with the report issued by Bond charging inconscistencies in Holman's office. Berry said both men advised him they had written letters to Myers advising they had not given him permission to use their names on any report.

Berry said he called the committee's attention to articles in a metropolitan newspaper in St. Louis on Sept. 17 under the headline "Accountants Assail State Auditor's office," and another article on Oct. 3 by one of the staff writers of the paper stating "A review of his office (Holman) by the State Certified Public Accountants, etc." and that, "in my opinion this was an implication that this report had the approval of the Missouri Society of CPAs and that this is not true."

Berry said C. Robert Meyer, president of the Missouri Society of CPA's, has stated the report was not issued under the auspices of the society, which will not endorse candidates.

Bonds' report was made following a study by a group of individual CPAs of Holman's office.

Berry said Myer was correct in the statement that he is a friend of Governor Hearnes, a colonel on his staff, and he is an active supporter of Holman.

Nixon Keeps Running Mate Choice Open But Praises Agnew

CHICAGO (AP) — President Nixon, carrying his cross-country Republican campaign to the Pacific Coast today, is keeping open his option on whether to back Vice President Spiro T. Agnew as his 1972 running mate.

Before flying to Illinois Wednesday night, Nixon was asked in Texas about a published report that Agnew might be dumped from the GOP ticket in 1972 in favor of Rep. George Bush, provided Bush wins a hotly contested Senate race in the Lone Star State.

"I'll cover that as I get along in the campaign," Nixon replied.

While his response seemed noncommittal, and he never has publicly committed himself to backing Agnew for renomination, the chief executive added a few words certain to encourage his vice president: "I must say that he is one of the great campaigners of all ... I think he is doing a wonderful job."

It was understood that Agnew plaeed a concerned telephone call to the White House after reading the report that he might be sidetracked.

The story, published in the Dallas Times Herald, was distributed by the Washington Post-Los Angeles Times news service and was written by David Broder.

Jim Allison, deputy chairman of the Republican National Committee, said, "I wish they'd run that story next week ... It doesn't help."

Allison apparently theorized that Texans might interpret the published account as an administration "plant" to win their votes—and react against it.

Harry Dent, one of Nixon's chief political lieutenants, said of the Bush-for-vice-president story, "There's nothing to it."

Ronald L. Ziegler, Nixon's press secretary, said today "There has been absolutely no discussion by the President and his principal aides about the 1972 vice-presidential nomination—or even whether he will himself be a candidate for reelection."

Nixon scheduled for today what he jokingly termed "a rather light day."

"I have two meetings in Illinois, one in Omaha, Neb., one in Rochester, Minn., then in San Jose, Calif., and then in San Clemente, Calif.," he said.

The President's immediate mission in Illinois was to boost Ralph Tyler Smith for an elected term in the Senate. Republican Smith, according to Illinois polls, is the distinct underdog in his contest with Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson III.

Smith was appointed to the Senate vacancy left by the death of Everett M. Dirksen, to serve until the general election.

Ratchford Makes Budget Plea

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The budget appeals board wound up its hearings Wednesday after hearing the interim president of the University of Missouri, Dr. C. Brice Ratchford, ask for the institution's full request of $109 million in operations money.

Ratchford said any less would cut into the quality of public higher education in Missouri. The tentative budget had been cut by Comptroller John C. Vaughn to $86.4 million, about $6 million more than the university is now getting for operations on its four campuses.

"We have gone much further than slimming off the excess fat," Ratchford said. "We have cut into the heart of the operation. More bluntly, we have certainly hurt quality."

Pair Sought in Alleged Plot

CHICAGO (AP) — Illinois state police issued an all-points bulletin early today for two men who officers said were wanted for questioning about an alleged assassination plot against President Nixon.

The President arrived at O'Hare International Airport Wednesday night and was staying in a motel not far from the airport in Northwest Chicago, before resuming his campaign for Republican candidates in next week's election.

State police said they received information on the two men from police in Arlington Heights, a northwestern suburb.

Lt. Joseph Ostermann of the Arlington Heights police declined to identify the informant. He would say only that the men were being sought in connection with a reported assassination plot.

The FBI in Chicago said it had been informed and was investigating.

SENATOR SYMINGTON DESERVES RE-ELECTION

From the voter's standpoint, the Missouri race for the United States Senate this autumn is a dream contest. Each party has nominated its most qualified man for that high office. The Democratic incumbent, Stuart Symington, has built an international reputation during his 25 years in public life. The Republican nominee, Attorney General John C. Danforth, is one of the most appealing young men to emerge in Missouri politics in many years. Although the choice is a difficult one, The Star believes that Senator Symington has earned the right to a fourth term. In the Senate he has addressed himself to many of the critical issues facing the nation, while at the same time he has been an effective representative of his home state. His seniority on three powerful Senate committees (armed forces, foreign affairs and space) cannot be overlooked. In addition, he serves on the joint economics committee.

From the Missouri viewpoint, his record is impressive. No one has worked harder both publicly and behind the scenes to win appropriations for flood control projects.

Kansas City has seldom, if ever, had a more loyal friend in the Senate. His door has always been open to local delegations. Symington played a decisive role in keeping major league baseball in Kansas City. He lined up the necessary votes in the Senate to win approval of the new federal office building here.

Win or lose, Jack Danforth, who is only 34 years old, should have a bright future in public life. As we see it, the only problem now is that he is in the wrong race at the wrong time.

From The Kansas City Star

As if anybody could think otherwise, we'll say emphatically that our vote in November will go to Stuart Symington for Senator. Without going into qualifications, our first reason would be that he is a personal friend, just as he was of our father. His first private secretary was our first cousin, Catherine Blanton Roberts, now deceased. The first one to ask him to run for the Senate was our father. He hasn't always voted the way we wanted him to, but we doubt if our editorials would always please him.

TYPICAL AMERICAN VOTER

A new book recently out, "The Real Majority," by Richard Scammon and Ben J. Wattenberg, says that three in four voters "never set foot in a college classroom."

And only one in eight voters has been graduated from a college of any kind.

Dick Scammon, you may recall, was Director of the Census back in 1960, and has appeared on television with his analyses of the American public.

On the other hand he warns, "If the electorate is not 'intellectual,' it is most certainly not composed of ignoramuses." About 62 per cent are at least high school graduates. It is Scammon's opnion that ' the inherent wisdom of the American voter is substantial."

The typical American voter, the authors' conclude after producing a book full of fascinating statistics, is something like this:

"White, about 47, middle- educated, Protestant, with family income of about $8,622 from a job requiring work with the hands and not exclusively the mind."

If you get the votes of all such people, brother, you're in!

INCIDENT AT BLAIR HOUSE

One late autumn afternoon 20 years ago, Oscar Collazo and Griselio Torresola, two young Puerto Ricans, went to Pennsylvania Station in New York City and purchased coach tickets to Washington. Although they had families in the Bronx, the men bought one- way tickets because they didn't expect to come back. They had decided to assassinate President Truman.

Collazo was to say later that he had no grudge against Truman. He wanted to kill the President -- not the man. Both he and Torresola were Puerto Rican nationalists who hoped that a presidential assassination would trigger a revolution in the United States. In the turmoil, Puerto Rico might break free from this country and gain its independence. This would have achieved the aim of the Nationalist Party, which at the time was staging an abortive revolt on the island.

The day after their arrival in the capital, on Nov. 1, 1950, Collzao and Torresola set out for Blair House, across from the White House, where President Truman and his family were living while the official residence was being repaired. They carried two pistols and 69 rounds of ammunition. The front door of the mansion was open because of the unseasonably warm weather, so they decided to charge right up the steps in hopes of finding the President somewhere in the building and gunning him down.

At 2:20 p.m., Collazo, who had been shuffling inconspicuously along with a number of pedestrians passing Blair House, reached a point about eight feet from Donald T. Birdsell, a White House policeman who stood with his back to him on the lower steps of the mansion. Collazo pulled his pistol, pointed it straight at the guard and fired. It produced only a sharp click.

At the sound of the click, Birdzell turned and saw Collazo pounding on his pistol with his left first. Suddenly, it went off, hitting the guard in the leg. Despite his wound and Collazo firing after him, Birdzell dashed out into Pennsylvania Avenue. He returned the fire while Collazo started running up the steps. Other guards opened up on him.

Meanwhile, Torresola moved up from the other side and fatally wounded Leslie Coffelt, another White House policeman who was shooting at Collazo from inside a booth. Torresola then turned his fire on two other guards, wounding both. At this point, Coffelt, despite his mortal wound, leaned out of the doorway of his booth and fired a single shot. It hit Torresola in the brain, killing him.

Altogether, 27 shots were fired in little more than two minutes. President Truman, who had been napping, was awakened by the shooting and hurried to a window of his bedroom. Guards, fearing there might be other assassins in the crowd, shouted: "Get back! Get back!" Truman got back. Collazo was sentenced to the electric chair for the murder of Coffelt, but the President, without explanation, later commuted the sentence to life imprisonment.

Just recently the Federal debt limit was again raised to the staggering figure of $395 billion on a temporary basis and $380 billion on a permanent basis. The actual debt is approximately $375 billion, costing taxpayers some $19 billion annually in interest charges.

So it was interesting to note what Rep. George Goodling (R.- Pa.) had to say... "The Congress simply has failed to come to grips with the problem of controlling federal spending. We need to be rehabilitated along the lines of fiscal sobriety. Let me now place some of the blame squarely on the shoulders of some who will read this. I am amazed at the communications I receive from highly successful and competent businessmen who lose all sense of fiscal integrity and responsibility when asking for additional taxpayer money to finance a pet project. Recently I have wirtten what may have been some sharp words simply because I am getting fed up to the ears with requests for additional appropriations with never one suggestion as to a source of additional revenue. The paradox is this: If there were a vote called on the higher taxes essential to financing these pet projects, a unanimous 'no' would ring out loud and clear."

"STOP REPUBLICAN RECESSION -- VOTE DEMOCRATIC"

That is the theme of Missouri's Democratic campaign.

It will give people or our state something to think about. As we said before in this column, under the Nixon policies of tight money, high interest, cutbacks on education, health, construction, etc., we have constantly rising operational prices, while at the same time we are a recession so far as income is concerned.

This probably applies more to the farmer than to anyone else in our economy.

A Beginning

Hal Boyle

By JEFFREY D. ALDERMAN
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — For the panhandlers of New York City, the days of "Can you spare a dime for a cup of coffee?" are long gone.

As in any modern American business, panhandling has come up with a new bag of gimmicks to increase productivity.

A man, wearing a neat business suit and carrying a slick valise, comes up to you in the Port Authority bus terminal near Times Square.

"Hey buddy," he says. "Help me out, huh? Lost my wallet somewhere and haven't got enough change to get home to New Jersey. Need 40 cents."

He is difficult to resist. But despite his well-groomed, commuter look, the man is probably a panhandler.

Another man, observed recently on a Manhattan street corner, has come up with a more elaborate and probably more profitable version of the same game. He held a fist-full of cash and stopped passersby saying: "Do me a favor, pal? My car got towed away and I don't have enough cash to get it out of the police garage. All I need is four more bucks and I'll have the $75 for the fine and the towing fee."

Clever, huh? So clever, in fact, that this panhandler and other industrious beggars may take in as much as $200 or more a week by simply asking for spare change.

Panhandlers tend to congregate in areas where they will meet unsuspecting, less hardened out-of-towners. The bus and railroad stations are favorite spots, as are the major tourist attractions.

Music is often used to lure nickels and dimes from people. A man who stations himself daily near St. Patrick's Cathedral plays the violin while people drop change into a hat on the sidewalk. Another fellow plays a trumpet daily near a major department store. He has a dish for change and a sign saying, "Trying to get better."

Passengers getting off buses at the Port Authority often have their bags grabbed by persons who say they'll take them to the nearest taxi stand. Once at the taxi stand, they demand a dollar for their services. Official porters charge 35 cents and no tipping is permitted.

Begging is against the law. In New York it is illegal for persons to loiter for the purpose of begging or soliciting. The maximum penalty is $250. Few beggars, however, are ever arrested. Most citizens don't bother turning in complaints.

Halloween night poses a special safety problem that is unique to this one night of the year. With this in mind, Colonel E. I. (Mike) Hockaday, the Superintendent of the Missouri State Highway Patrol, urged motorists and parents to do their respective part to protect the many children who will be outdoors for tricks and treats on this particular festive night.

"I urge motorists to be particularly cautious and alert for children on Halloween night," Hockaday stated, "While drivers should always be on the lookout for children, the added hazard of excited youngsters crossing streets at night, from behind parked cars, often wearing dark costumes or clothing, increases the danger of them being hit by a car. Drivers should be extra careful to compensate for these hazards associated with Halloween."

The Patrol Superintendent then reminded parents to make sure their youngsters wear something white when trick and treatingon halloween night. He suggested that a white hankerchief or scarf be tied around their arm so they can be better seen by approaching motorists. Hockaday also urged parents to escort their small children on Halloween outings to help prevent a tragic traffic accident.

"Missouri has experienced a comparatively good traffic record in respect to youngsters on Halloween night," Hockaday continued. "But there have been a few young trick and treaters injured and killed on our streets in the past. I urge motorists and parents, therefore, to do everything possible to make the upcoming Halloween night safe for youngsters in traffic as they partake in this once a year festival."

HERE'S A VERY personal question which we doubt very much you'll write a letter to the editor with an answer. Just what kind of American are you? Will you go to the polls November 3 and vote regardless of the weather? And will you vote on all the ballots with personal conviction? You know there are an awful lot of countries where you have no choice of candidates or propositions, but the people go and vote in far greate; percentages than they do here in our good old America where there is a candidate from various parties, giving you a choice to make. Nearly all of you who readthis have criticism of the way things are going htese days, but if youdon't vote, do you really have the right to complain? Yes, our good country expects a lot of complaint, but you owe it to yourself and to your country to go and vote.

PLENTY OF STYLE IN BOY'S SPRING APPAREL TRENDS: The Norfolk jacket is coming along as a major clothing fashion for boys for 1970. It is already quite popular in most parts of the country, says the Men's Fashion Association... Shape and body-line are a bit hit in the youth market. Pants are wider, many of them 20 inches and more at knee and bottom. There are straight legs and flares, and many of them are extremely high- waisted... And, in all models of jackets, the trend to lowering buttoning (in either single- or double- breasted) is strong-- to show more shirt and tie.

SOME FACTS THAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT THE U.S.A.

Voters at the Nov. 5 election voted in their 37th president — Richard M. Nixon.

The U.S.A. is now a nation of about 200 million people, 102 million females and 98 million males. sure glad to report that the figue came out even.

In round numbers (what do square numbers look like?)175 million are white, 25 million non-white.

120 million are old enough to vote.

125 million live in cities.

91 million are married.

33 million own their own homes.

6 million attend college.

50 million attend lower schools.

33 million are white collar workers.

27 million are blue collar workers.

123 million claim they go to church.

9 million are foreign born.

11 million are widows or widowers.

19 million are over 65.

1-6 million are 25 or over.

Our average age is 27.7.

About 85 million have been born since July 1, 1945.

These are not just dry statistics but should help outline prospects for your future business. There are 120 million old enough to vote. Your job is to see your share of them -- all who live in your territory. So on down the line in the population are six there million college student prospects; 50 million who attend lower schools who are prospects; 19 million who are under five years of age are prospects too.

In your territory you have your fair share of these prospects waiting for your call and your job is not completed until you have checked out your share of the population.

And there have been 85 million births since July 1, 1945. this 85 million would be 23 years old. What a fine prospect list. What a fine project for an agent to set about interviewing all the people in his town and county who are 18 to 30 years old.

The theft and forgery of tickets is assuming the proportions of a major headache for the airline industry.

An estimate by Franklin Oelschlager, top security officer for the Air Transport Association of America, places the loss to the airlines in 1969 at $500,000- double the total of the previous year.

In Cleveland recently, a former employe of one airline was arrested for stealing 2,000 blank tickets, potentially worth many thousands of dollars. The arraigning judge, however, reduced the offense to petty larceny on the ground that the man could only be charged with having stolen the actual value of the paper stock.

THE MISSING ELEMENT

Naval officer and Director of Naval History, Rear Admiral Ernest M. Eller (Ret.), recently made a point that is often overlooked in our strife- torn land. "Unhappily," he observes, ''most education and most panaceas for social ills like riots, slums, and crime stress mostly material solutions rather than those of the soul and character. We should not neglect the material solutions but unless we emphasize first of all the nobler ones of the spirit we will surely fail."

Admiral Eller then quotes the words of a young naval aviator written to his wife shortly before he lost his life in Viet Nam. In them lie the soul and the character of which the Admiral speaks. "I don't want my sons to have to fight a war I should have fought. I wish more Americans felt that way. I am not a 'war monger.' It will be me who gets shot at. But it is blind and foolish not to have the courage of your convictions. It will not live under a totalitarian society and I don't want you to either. I believe in God and I will resist any force that attempts to remove God from society no matter what the name."

H.L. Hunt Says

DECISION AT OTTAWA

Canada, our "closest friend and ally," has turned its back on Taiwan and formally recognized the butchers of Peking as the legal government of China. Whatever explanations Ottawa may make for its actions, it will not soften the blow suffered by the United States and the remainder of the world.

If the brains of the vicious world of communism are in Moscow, part ot the powerhouse is in Peking. Thousands of our fighting men have died before the might of that powerhouse in Korea and Indo-China. The diplomatic recognition of communist China by Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau's government doesn't put the two nations into alliance but it weakens our hand as the leader of the front opposed to international communism.

The recognition also gives Peking new liscense in operating an embassy at our doorstep. The embassies of Russia and Red China are traditionally hot beds of subversive activity.

The decision at Ottawa also weakens, our position vis-a-vis Peking in keeping Taiwan in the United Nations and Red China out, although the world group has lost such stature already that this may not be a great diplomatic loss. Trudeau's actions in the field of diplomacy compliments the grains trade a arrangements that has existed between the two governments for a long time. Canada wheat feeds the stomachs of the people who aim at world domination through the subversion processes of communism.

Thus, our neighbor to the North takes an action that is within its province but that also indirectly stabs us in the back. Are these Canadians of the same stripe that bled and died for freedom at Dieppe?" HLH

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON -- Now that the Nixon administration is winding down the anti= poverty program, many of the nation's poor are wondering where the money went.

Much of it went to enrich unscrupulous contractors and anti - poverty officials interested only in making a fast buck.

This column has already reported how Volt Information Sciences, Inc., banked some $30 million in anti= poverty money by cashing in on friendships inside the Office of Economic Opportunity.

At the lower levels, some small contractors demonstrated equal skill at extracting from the taxpayers money intended for the poor. VISTA's dealings with two associated contractors, forexample, cost the poor $260,000 for some specious "recruiting materials."

A three- month investigation by this column has produced the following findings:

One contractor skipped the country after pocketing almost $200,000. The other continued to milk VISTA for an additional $62,000.

A VISTA official had part of his home carpeted "at cost," courtesy of one of the contractors. Indeed, the carpeting might have been installed free of charge if another official hadn't learned about it and demanded a bill.

The case of John Burwell, a Washington, D.C. designer and photographer now abiding in England, illustrates how the contract game is played.

BILKING THE POOR

In the fall of 1968, VISTA officials decided to place "recruiting exhibits" at a National Career Exposition in New York City. They contracted with Burwell to construct the exhibits.

According to one insider who was directly involved, Burwell did nothing but "enlarge some existing photographs, mount them and hang them on the wall." For this,"temporary exhibit," our investigation shows, Burwell was paid $21,186.

VISTA executives, as part of their war against poverty, then decided to construct a series of permanent exhibits. "There was no reason the temporary exhibits could not have been used again,"one VISTA official told my associate, Joe Spear. "But that, of course, is not the way you give away money."

Without seeking bids, VISTA administrative officer Roy Little instructed Burwell to begin work on the permanent exhibits. Arrangements were made to pay him as a Volt subcontractor. Thus Volt would get its customary slice of the poor peoples' pie.

Not long after Burwell began work on the permanent exhibits, government auditors discovered that over a span of three years he had been paid $115,301 for unaccounted "recruitment materials.' This was in addition to $49,823 that he had collected in direct billings for work on the VISTA Volunteer magazine.

Burwell picked up another $11,393 for the first permanent exhibit, then hastily departed for England. His associate, M. Jack Hirose, immediately took over the contracts for three more exhibits. Again, no bids were sought.

Another designer, Donald Applegate of Mt Rainer, Md., later learned of Hirose's work on the exhibits and felt they were "way overpriced."

In search of pricing information, Applegate contacted an exhibit builder by the name of Emmett Cunningham of Alexandria, Va. Applegate quoted Cunningham as saying that he and Hirose were partners and that he had built the same exhibits before for $5,000 apiece.

OFFICIAL'S CARPET

"He called me back later," Applegate told this column, "and said there was more involved than he had realized. He told me that apparently some government officials had gotten their houses carpeted as part of the deal. He asked me to submit a competitive bid so as not to make them look too bad."

In connection with the carpeting, Applegate said, Cunningham mentioned the name of Alexander Grant, then VISTA's recruitment chief.

Cunningham confirmed the conversations with Applegate but told this column he lied to Applegate "to mislead a competitor." Both Cunningham and Hirose admitted "selling" the carpet to Grant for $180. Cunningham said he "made a profit of 20 per cent on the deal." Hirose, however, claimed Grant got the carpet "at cost."

Grant acknowledged buying the carpet from Hirose "at wholesale," but maintained he could see "nothing irregular" in the deal. However, Roy Little told this column that Grant paid for the carpet only "after I asked him to pay for it. He put me on the spot." Little denied that he had ever received any favors from contractors.

Meanwhile, only parts of the controversial exhibits have ever been used. Three are now sitting idle in a government warehouse in Washington. Volt recently turned over the fourth to General Electric for possible use under a new recruitment contract.

DENIALS BACKFIRE

The arrest of 13 suspects in a drug raid at famed Walter Reed Army Hospital has left a number of military bureaucrats red-faced.

Most embarrassed by the arrests were Brig. Gen. Winant Sidle, the Army information chief, and Louis Arrants, an information officer at the Hospital, who had pooh - poohed our stories about drug abuses at Walter Reed.

When a reporter for this column visited the hospital last August to investigate the drug problem, Arrants denied there was a problem and tried to force the reporter to surrender her notes.

After we reported that the hospital had become a "haven of drug abuse," and pointed out how Arrants had attempted to hide the facts, General Sidle received a complaint from a reader about Arrants's actions.

The general immediately supported Arrants in a smug letter which stated, falsely, that the subject of drug use had never been discussed by Arrants and our reporter.

YOUTH VS AGE

The White House is worried about money for social welfare programs. It's gotten down to whether the White House will cut the bill to aid dependent children or knock out funds for the elderly.

One despondent administrator said both arguments are so strong that he might as well flip a coin. Either the young or the old are going to have to go begging another year.

TUPAMAROS' U.S.A. FASHION: Neo-Revolutionists' Female Leader Warns Of Political Kidnappings and Assassinations

NEW YORK -- For days on end now, every time one reached for a scotch, or whisked an hors d'oeuvre off a tray or put one's hand into a jacket pocket for a pipe to light up, there was a security man at one's side. They had tiny emblems in their lapels. They carried tiny cameras. Or they simply used fast film ''movie taker'' to record strangers.

They were part of the 1,000 special federal agents, 4,000 New York City police, and some 800 foreign bodyguards covering the United Nation reception circuit. They ''made'. (examined) hundreds of hotel rooms and banquet halls and looked into some 1,500 cars in search of dynamite bombs.

Basically, they appeared to be on routine celebrity security duty. But behind their fears was the image of America's latter-day "La Passionaria" -- the 28-year- old Bernardine Dohrn, leader of the first, truly trained, truly organized, truly disciplined revolutionary network of killers and kidnappers.

Call this movement what your whimsy decides -- Revolutionary Youth Movement (RYM I), or the "Weathermen," or the front in the U.S. for the agency of the Cuban Tri-Continental operation, or the global extension of Maoist Marxist - Leninist underground into America - but whatever you call it, don't dub it in the image of Nicholai Lenin's disdainful "infantile leftism."

Bernardine Dohrn's revolutionary followers are young -- but not infantile. They have had their ',war'' councils -- one in Flint, Mich., in December 1969 -- less than 10 months ago. Then they met again in Cleveland, on Feb. 4 - not much more than eight months ago.

At this February session, Miss Dohrn's revolutionary aide, Mark Rudd (who led the first seizure of Columbia University) said the movement was going underground and would carry out assassinations.

This isn't overheated rhetoric by a youngster "stoned out of his head." It is cool revolutionary planning. After the declaration of war, the bombing and violence methodically moved eastward from California cities to Chicago to Rochester and then New York.

Comrade Dohrn, who refers to herself as a "revolutionary Communist" -- means it. In her own declaration of urban war she said it and meant it.

The Weatherman tactics would be, said she (who first devised the phrase Weatherman), an adaptation of "the classic guerrilla strategy of the Vietcong and the urban guerrilla strategy of the Tupamaros to our own situation here in the most technically advanced country in the world."

Note well this woman's words. She refers to the Tupamaros of Uruguay. This means kidnapping and slayings of hostages. This means the seizure of some prominent citizen or government official + and the demand for an exchange of prisoners. Perhaps for Angela Davis.

This means swift midnight raids on some factories and radio and television stations. Evidence of these plans is in the hands of some federal authorities.

"Dohrn" is a tough leader and disciplinarian. She is bright, fast, erudite and has ice water in her veins.

And she didn't learn her revolutionary strategy at the University of Chicago. There she got her Ph.D. in law. The training and tactics were developed in an underground here, run by a central committee which has "comrades" in Berkeley, Calif., Chicago, the auto city of Detroit, and New York. There are liaison couriers running into the Maoist ',central'' in Montreal and Havana.

Dohrn, a red lady of many aliases, has been to Yugosiavia for briefings by "new world revolutionists." And in July 1969, she spent five weeks in Havana. There, for two of those weeks, she consistently conferred with Vietcong specialists. Many other hours were taken by Latin neo - revolutionists who would make the late "Che" sound like an ancient Fabian Socialist.

Comrade Dohrn kept a diary. In it is evidence of her special explosive training, contacts and strategy. It is filled with notes on her indoctrination on "revolutionary concepts," guerrilla warfare, bombings, and the tactics aimed at unsettling the nerves and production of the U.S.

These are the tactics she has passed on to what the movement calls the ',families and tribes." It is Bernardine Dohrn who directed the concentration on Kent State University. She and her comrades have been in and out of the campus for several years. At least 10 of the 58 persons arrested during the disturbances were not enrolled at the school.

There is considerable S.D.S. Weatherman literature which calls for "war" on the university. But Kent is only one of the concentrations planned.

There are other "target" campuses. And on Nov. 3, Election Day, her S.D.S. central committee has scheduled three national demonstrations -- San Francisco, Chicago and Detroit. They may or may not come off. Most of the Weathermen are underground or in Canada. They have a healthy respect for the Federal Bureau of Investigation's skill - if not for its director. They're still startled by the capture of Angela Davis. So they may not surface.

These revolutionists are young. They have time, patience and dynamite. The plan to use all three -- and Tupamaro's tactics, too.

Ann Landers

Why trim husband becomes fat man

Dear Ann Landers: The problem is my husband's weight. I know neither you nor I can do anything about it but I'm hoping Ed sees this letter in the paper and is motivated to do something himself. Everything else has failed.

When we were married Ed was a beautiful 180 pounds, wore a size 40 suit. Now, 17 years later, he squeezes himself into a size 48 and refuses to say how much he weighs. It can't be an ounce under 265.

Ed has been to two doctors. They both ruled out thyroid trouble. One doctor said, in my presence, "The over-worked gland is his mouth."

I plan Ed's meals carefully, no fats, no starches, low-cal desserts, sugar-free canned goods. When I find candy-bar wrappers and empty peanut sacks in his car I get so mad I nearly explode. He drinks beer like it was free. The only muscles that get any exercise are his eyeballs - great TV watcher

The two big loves in Ed's life are food and sex. Unfortunately, the love for food is destroying his ability to have sex. It is also destroying my desire for him. It's not easy to get sexually aroused by a man who has eaten himself out of shape. I've tried my darndest to fake it but I'm a poor actress and he can tell. This makes him unhappy and sometimes he is impotent.

Ed is a good man, devoted and kind and I do love him. But I worry that he is shortening his life, ruining his health and hurting our marriage. Is there anything you can think of to help him?--Worried in Seattle

Dear Worried: Please reread the first eleven words in the second sentence of your letter to me. Truer words were never spoken. Every overweight person must accept responsibility for himself - and this means responsibility for every ounce of fat he has added to his frame. Until HE decides to do something about it, nothing will happen.

I have considerable faith in: (1) Professional counseling. Sometimes when fat people learn WHY they are stuffing themselves, they quit. (2) Weight Watchers. This organization has produced extraordinary results for overweight people who have tried everything else without results. Seattle has several chapters and meeting places. (Look in the phonebook.) Do NOT urge Ed to follow either of these suggestions. Hand him this column and if he wants to act on it he will.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a middle-aged family man who has never been in any trouble whatsoever. Driving home from work tonight I picked up a rather forlong looking girl who was hitchhiking. She appeared to be about 15. After she got in the car she looked older. When we came to a light she saw a policeman on the curb. In a pleasant, conversational tone she said, "Give me $5 or I'll scream that you tried to rape me." I was so stunned I couldn't say a word. My first thought was the publicity. It can ruin a man whether he's innocent or guilty. Without hesitation I gave her $5. She smiled and said, "Thanks, sucker," then she jumped out of the car and ran off.

I told my wife about it the minute I arrived home. She said the same thing had happened to her male hairdresser last week. So please, Ann, warn people against picking up hitchhikers. It can be very dangerous. --Burned

Dear Burned: I've warned people about hitchhikers repeatedly. And now I'd like to say a word about shakedowns. When you gave that little twerp $5 you encouraged her to shake down the next guy. You should have turned her over to the cop right then and there.

Too many couples go from matrimony to acrimony.. Don't let your marriage flop before it gets started. Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Marriage- What To Expect." Sen your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper eclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Journalism student says Southeast Asia servicemen dismayed

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP)—A senior journalism student at the University of Kansas who spent last summer as a correspondent in Southeast Asia says most American servicemen she talked to were confused and dismayed by the war.

Martha Manglesdorf said they told her they thought peace demonstrations at home were useless and selfish.

"Yet, they wear peace medals and beads," she said. "I think they wear them to show a sort of passive resistance. They feel, 'It's my job for a year. I accept it, but I don't condone it.'"

Miss Manglesdorf said she found the war zone depressing, but "I really wanted to stay. It took nearly three months to learn the ropes."

Martha represented the Kansas - based Harris newspaper group which hired her on a summer reporting intern's salary.

Her $1,200 round - trip plane ticket consumed most of that, laving her with only $300 for expenses, so she spent most of her time in Red Cross or nurses quarters at forward fire bases.

She traveled mostly by military helicopter, the safest way to get around, she says, although they came under small arms fire several times.

Martha brought back some opinions and attitudes of her own.

One of the most depressing aspects of the war, she said, is the despoliation of the Vietnam countryside.

Martha said she believes the South Vietnamese are capable of taking over the fighting themselves, but not until the United States pulls out wil they assume responsibility.

She believes that too many of the South Vietnamese either don't realize or don't care about the consequences of Communist or democratic forms of government to fight with conviction.

"Political arguments are almost irrelevant in Vietnam," she said. "They're nonsensical."

Because of the controversy back home over the Reserve Officers Training Corps programs, she said she asked platoon leaders she met if they had participated in ROTC.

"I really believe ROTC will be the salvation of the U.S. military," she said. "It shows up in the infantry. ROTC-trained platoon leaders are more broadened, exposed and not vulnerable to the 'military rut.' They seem to place a little more value in life above other things."

Martha said she has seen a few of the GI's she met in Southeast Asia since returning home to Prairie Village, Kan., and to the KU campus. They have put Vietnam behind them, she said. "We don't talk about it much."

Lady Bird says LBJ not involved in politics

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson says her husband has no intention of injecting himself into national politics and won't be "harnessed and bridled into anything demanding a schedule.

"He is concerned for a few personal friends he believes in," but that's the extent of his interest in the current election campaign, Mrs. Johnson said in an interview.

If asked his main occupation nowadays, Mrs. Johnson said, the ex-president is likely to reply: "I am trying to keep my grass green and keep my cattle fat."

"Vastly relieved" that her 783-page book, "A White House Diary," is now published, the former first lady said: "At the head of my docket now is learning to play golf."

Johnson needs a steady partner for the sport which he took up again this summer at Lady Bird Johnson Municipal Park near Fredericksburg, Tex.

His own book is progressing well Mrs. Johnson said. But she doesn't expect it to be out until sometime next year because the pubiishers "probably would give mine a play for a number of months."

Asked if Johnson might speak out in reply to President Nixon or Vice President Spiro T. Agnew in the campaign, Mrs. Johnson said: "He doesn't want to inject himself into it. Except for being a very concerned citizen and voting for the people in our own area and being quite earnest about trying to improve our own area, I do not foresee any activity."

Johnson did a little campaigning in his home state for Lloyd Bentsen, the Democrat running for the Senate in Texas against Republican Rep. George Bush.

While here promoting her book, Mrs. Johnson went to Maryland campaign parties "for two good friends of mine for whom I have high hopes." Her candidates are congressional hopeful Tom Boggs, son of long-time Johnson friend Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La., and a newcomer to politics running for the Maryland House of Delegates, Ruffin Maddox whose wife, Marcia, was on Mrs. Johnson's White House staff.

Asked to assess the effectiveness of campaigning by a first lady, veteran campaigner Lady Bird said:

"I think she naturally can be helpful speaking for her husband. She's the next thing to him. He can't be everywhere and since people do want to understand the man who is their leader, I think they have a feeling of being closer to him and understanding him and knowing more about him when they meet his wife.

"And I'm sure some of that must rub off on other candidates too."

Mrs. Johnson emphatically declared there were no regrets at all over her husband's decision not to run in 1968. "We gave it all we had," and she feels "satisfied enough" about those presidential years.

Mrs. Johnson said "I don't think there's a chance" a president can become isolated and surrounded by yes-men as has been suggested by former Johnson press secretary George Reedy.

"Nobody has such a barrage of information flung at him. And quite truly it is not all plaudits and friendly and hurrays. It's on the three faces of television (the three networks) and all that stack of papers lying on his bed that come in with his tea every morning.

"How can he fail to listen? He has his mail. A wise person, almost anybody, would feel it necessary to be attuned to that mail. I know Lyndon did. And then there are senators from both parties and loud voices proclaming their views. No, I don't think there's a chance."

Girl born without ears can hear and talk at 7

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Elena Arroyo is happy—very happy—because at last she has ears that stick out like any other 7-year-old girl's.

Elena was born without ears in a remote Otomi Indian village 200 miles northeast of Mexico City.

There weren't even any openings where her ears should have been.

"Several tribesmen told her parents that they should kill her," says Miss Vola Griste, a missionary of the Wycliffe Bible Translators who has spent 27 years among the Otomis.

"But her mother had been converted to Christianity, and she told them she couldn't do that, that the Lord gave her to them for some purpose. Right then and there, I pledged to help that little girl."

When Elena was old enough last year, Miss Griste took her to Oklahoma City, where an ear surgeon had offered his services.

"When the doctor finished he told me he didn't think he had done her any good," recalls Miss Griste. He was wrong. After a postoperative period, Elena could hear. Miss Griste considers it a miracle.

Elena began to learn to talk, but Otomi girls wear their hair long, pulled back off the ears, and if Elena couldn't do that she wouldn't have much of a future.

Executives of Realastic Industries, an Oakland firm that makes cosmetic restorations, heard about Elena and offered to help.

Money for the trip was raised through the efforts of James Santos, a United Auto Workers member employed at Realastic. A few weeks ago Elena was brought here to be measured for artificial ears.

This week she came back, a sober little girl with her black hair combed straight down, hiding ears that weren't there.

She walked out radiant, her hair pushed back behind her new ears in proper Otomi style.

"She was all giggly," said Miss Griste. "Kept looking at the mirrors around her and taking her hair, a strand at a time, placing it behind her ears."

The plastic ears are attached with a special adhesive.

Elena will stay with Miss Griste until she can be taken back to her home in Mexico.

Tulsa, K-State Probation

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Officials of the University of Tulsa, hit with a three-year football probation along with Kansas State by the National Collegiate Athletic Assn., contend "this sort of things will never happen again."

The NCAA's powerful executive council slapped the threeyear probations on the Golden Hurricanes and Kansas State Wednesday because of recruiting rules violations and giving improper financial aid to prospective athletes.

K-State and Tulsa will be on probation until Jan. 1, 1973, barring their football teams from post-season bowl games through that date.

The NCAA ruling confirmed investigations by the Big Eight and Missouri Valley conferences into recruiting irregularities.

Tulsa Athletic Director Glenn Dobbs said that he could "assure everyone that this sort of thing will never happen again at the University of Tulsa." Tulsa officials said they "don't like what has happened, but we accept the NCAA penalty."

There was no comment from Kansas State officials after NCAA announced the probation Wednesday.

The NCAA's committee on rules infractions also reviewed athletic practices at Marshall University in Huntington, W. Va. and LaSalle College in Philadelphia and restored them to full membership. Marshall was on a one-year probation for football recruiting rules violations in basketball recruiting.

As a couple of generations of fishermen know, the Shakespeare Company of Kalamazoo, Mich., makes equipment to lure and land The Big One. But the company also takes care of its leavings. The effluent leaving the company premises is so free from contamination it is completely pure. A large, colorful bluegill swimming in a tank of it is living testimony. Primary poisons removed from the effluent are acid and alkaline residues used in electroplating.

Successful Program

Forty years ago, you couldn't have hit a deer in Missouri wth an atomic bomb, had there been the bomb to begin with. There just weren't very many deer in Missouri -- about 500 in the mid-1930s.

When the Department of Conservation came into being in 1936, one of the first orders of business was to work to restore the deer herd.

How well the campaign has succeeded is easily seen in hunting statistics:

In 1969, gun hunters killed 23,265 deer in Missouri and bowhunters added another 619 for a grand total of 23,884 -- or 48 times the entire state population in the mid-thirties.

This season, Missourians will be hunting for the first time under a new management unit concept which should bring more hunting opporutnity to more hunters more frequently.

There will be 10 management units throughout the state during the Nov. 14-23 gun season. In the past, there have been three major units -- north Missouri, south Missouri and the St. Louis zone.

The advantage of breaking the state into smaller units is that hunting pressure can be more closely controlled. For example, the Department of Conservation in the past has alternated bucks - only and any-deer seasons in north Missouri because much of the area is heavily agricultural and can't stand repeated any-deer seasons.

But there are parts of north Missouri where deer populations are big enough to allow two or three successive any-deer seasons without serious loss to the deer herd.

Now the Department could open that unit to any-deer and keep the rest of north Missouri bucks-only.

A second advantage is that the management unit boundaries are along highways, rather than county lines. A county line may be an invisible line through the woods, but a highway is a visible boundary.

There will be eight any-deer units and two bucks - only units this fall. Units 1,2,3,7,8 and 9 will be any-deer Nov. 14-17 and bucks only Nov. 18-23. Units 5 and 6 will be any-deer Nov. 14-15 and bucks - only the rest of the season. Units 4 and 10 will be bucks only the entire season.

Units 1,2 and 3 are all of Missouri north of I-70. Unit four is the western prairie area south of I-70, north of I-44 and west of Mo. 13. Unit 5 is south of I-70, north of I-44, east of Mo. 13 and west of U.S. 63. Unit 6 is south of I-70, east of U.S. 63 to Rolla and Mo. 72 to Salem, north of Mo. 32 to Esther and U.S. 67 to Crystal City.

Unit 7 is south of I-44 and west of Mo. 38 from Marshfield to Hartville, then Mo. 5 to the Arkansas line. Unit 8 is east of that line, south of I-44 to Rolla, Mo. 72 to Salem and Mo. 32 to Esther and west of U.S. 67.

Unit 9 is east of U.S. 67 and north of U.S. 60 to Dexter and Mo. 25 to Dutchtown and Mo. 74 to Cape Girardeau. Unit 10 is everything south of Unit 9.

Expensive Deer

MARSHFIELD — Hunting out of season proved an expensive proposition for two Springfield men here Oct. 21 when Webster County Magistrate Judge Lewis Childress fined them the maximum $500 each for killing a doe on Oct. 11.

Four different conservation agents -- Jim Schroder and Jack Lilly of Green County, Foin Morrison of Webster County and Don Ross of Dallas County -- worked on the case.

The Missouri deer season is Nov. 14-23.

Homecoming At SEMO Saturday

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Lincoln University, the last undefeated and untied team in the MIAA, provides the Homecoming opposition for Southeast Missouri State College at 1:30 p.m. Saturday (Oct. 31) at Houck Stadium.

The game marks the beginning of a new series, as the two teams have never before met. Lincoln was officially admitted to the MIAA about two years ago, but due to scheduling difficulties, just became eligible for conference championships in September.

And Coach Dwight "Reed's Tigers are off on the right foot in the MIAA chase after winning their conference opener last Saturday against Northwest Missouri State College of Maryville, 27-17.

The Tigers, in compiling their sparkling 5-0 record this season, have also beaten Missouri Southern, Bemidji, Minn., State, Kentucky State, and Parsons College.

Tom Thrower, head coach at Southeast Missouri, described the four non- conference opponents as "tough competition."

Saturday's game is a must for Southeast Missouri, if the Indians are to retain any hopes for a fourth straight MIAA crown. The Indians successfully opened their conference season by beating Southwest Missouri State College of Springfield, 24-0. However, the following week they were set back 14-6 by Northeast Missouri State College of Kirksville, which is currently leading the league with a 2-0 record.

Besides Southwest Missouri, the Indians have only one other victory this season against four losses. The other win came last week by a 48-0 score over Bradley University, and the big margin of victory gave Indian followers a glimmer of hope for the remainder of the season.

The last time a Southeast Missouri team scored more than 48 points was in 1966 when the Indians downed the University of Missouri – Rolla, 49-13. The last time they had a greater margin of victory than they did against Bradley was way back in 1952 when the late Kenneth Knox's gridders outclassed Bethel College, 61-0.

Coach Thrower is hoping the "big" win over Bradley will give his team both momentum and confidence as it goes into the contest with Lincoln.

"We're going to need everything we can get against LIncoln," said Thrower. 'They're a big team, they have speed and are very quick up front, both offensively and defensively, and they have great pursuit. You have to do things right to score on them."

Thrower said the Tigers, which began the year with 27 returning lettermen including the entire starting offensive line from last season, prefer to run, but will throw if necessary. "They do what they have to do to win," he said, "and apparently they are playing just well enough to win, much like our team of last year. They haven't really overwhelmed anybody."

Southeast Missouri should be in its best physical condition Saturday since early in the season. Bob Barclay (Mayfield, Ky.), a 250- pound tackle, is off the injury list, and "this should be a big asset to our ground game," said Thrower.

The Indian coach also noted that senior All- MIAA running back Al Holmes (St. Louis McCluer) is improving each day and will be alternated with freshman Richard Attig (Murphysboro, Ill.). "This will give us both speed and power in the backfield," he said.

Attig, who has replaced Holmes in the last several games, has jumped into the MIAA rushing lead with 7.4 yards averaged per carry. He has netted 305 yards in 41 attempts.

Lincoln's Fontez Dale (East St. Louis, Ill.), a freshman, is third in the loop with a 5.4 average per carry. He did not play last week, however.

Other Southeast Missouri players who have been injured but are expected to be hear or at full strength Saturday are sophomore linebacker Kim Godwin (Cape Girardeau Central), junior wingback Art Miller (Kirkwood), and junior fullback Eddie Moss (Poplar Bluff).

The Indians' leader in total offense is freshman quarterback Lance Brune (Cape Girardeau Central) who has accounted for all but 60 of his 774 total yards by passing.

However, nine Brune aerials have been picked off by Indian opponents, and Brune will be matching wits with the MIAA's top pass defender Saturday in sophomore Walter Jordon (Birgminham, Ala.). Jordan has intercepted five passes this fall and returned them for 96 yards and two touchdowns.

Lincoln's Chris Middleton (Houston, Texas), a senior, leads the MIAA with a 41.2 average. Southeast Missouri's Godwin is second in the league with a 40.3 average.

Best Advertising Considers Both Mice and Men

OXFORD, Miss. — If you build a better mousetrap no one will necessarily beat a path to your door.

In fact, many inventors have built better mousetraps which didn't sell. One company which failed to sell a new and better mousetrap was the Woodstream Corp., one of the world's largest makers of animal traps.

The new trap was designed scientifically to work more efficiently after a thorough study of the habits and eccentricies of mice. It was easy to set, caught more mice, and caused a minimum amount of suffering to the victim. Yet, women continued to buy the old- fashioned, spring trap.

One commentator said the company made a mistaken in only analyzing the habits of mice. "It didn't psychoanalyze the tastes of women. It is women and not mice that buy mice traps."

So it is with any product-- be it a mousetrap or an automobile. The mental attitude of the buyer is the determinant of the final sale.

As mice don't buy mousetraps, often the user of a product is not the buyer.

Women buy men's shirts. Men buy expensive perfumes. A wife is likely to buy her husband's luggage, his electric razor, and most of his ties. The husband is likely to buy the second automobile which his wife uses. A man is likely to pay $5.00 for a pipe; his wife may pay $15.00 for a gift pipe.

The best of advertising considers both mice and men. Or, more precisely, both user and buyer, and the fact that motivations of the two are different.

Sikeston Daily Standard

Dear Sir:

On Saturday, October 24, on television, Gary Rust initimated that since the liberal New Democratic Coalition endorsed Bill D. Burlison, he must be liberal. This is terribly misleading. Bill Burlison is as "middle- of- the- road" as a Congressman can be.

The 10th District- one of the 31 farm districts left in America - demands a Congressman especially fitted for the district; yet this man must be knowledgeable in all phases of American life, both urban as well as rural. He must be a man of moderation, a responsible man. Given the choice in this election we endorsed Bill Burlison. He has a fine record, he is running on it.

But there is another reason for this letter. The attacks on liberals by Agnew and others in this election are dishonest, they are grossly unfair. They get "our feathers up." The NDC is a proud organization. Our NDC boasts a chairman who gave 20 years to the American uniform, our vice- chairman spent years in uniform, our student chairman is a Vietnam veteran, our present ward chairman is an ex- Marine, our treasurer is a navy veteran -- and so it goes.

Liberals have made this country great. The truly giant Presidents have all been liberals: Jefferson, Jackson, Lincoln, Roosevelt, Truman, Kennedy -- they all had the courage to bring about the change that was needed. We liberals care about people, about America – and we know what violence is. Violence took our President in Dallas, it took another great leader in Los Angeles. We believe that violence is ended not by increasing the violence but by changing those conditions that create it: poverty, illiteracy, prejudice -- the conditions that create fear. We work to reduce the fear and the hate. And we work within and through the American system. And we attack political issues, not people.

The true liberal knows that liberty and justice go hand in hand.

The NDC is happy to have endorsed Marine veteran Bill D. Burlison. He is a good man who has given himself to his country. And he is an experienced man.

Now we ask -- can his opponent say the same?

Sincerely,
Allen O'Donnell

Sikeston, Missouri

Dear Mr. Blanton,

In view of the doubt prevalent in our local community, as we once again approach Halloween, about the actuality of the UNICEF funds helping children in less fortunate countries, as was the initial motivation behind UNICEF, the local UNICEF committee and the sponsoring organization, Church Women United of Sikeston, would greatly appreciate having you publish the enclosed speech of Senator Chas. Percy of Illinois, taken from the Congressional Record of August 3, 1970, in its entirety, space permitting, whose reaction, in the final analysis, should be the deciding factor in the fate of the UNICEF program of the future.

Thank You,

UNICEF DRIVE COMMITTEE
Mrs. Carl F. Schorle, Chairman
Mrs. Horace Byrd, Co-chairman

UNICEF—THE UNITED NATIONS CHILDREN'S FUND
SPEECH OF
HON. CHARLES H. PERCY
OF ILLINOIS
IN THE SENATYOF
THE UNITED STATES
Monday, August 3, 1970

Mr. PERCY. Mr. President, over the years I have been greatly impressed with the accomplishments of the United Nations Children's Fund. It has been able to do a great deal of good for millions of children and mothers with a relatively small amount of money. It seems useful to examine how and why these achievements have been possible. Perhaps lessons can be discovered in such a review which would be valuable to all of us as we search for solutions to the problems of our time.

I note, for example, that UNICEF requires that a country must be willing to help itself to be eligible for UNICEF assistance. The people of the country contribute to the program in whatever way they can participate. Thus they learn to help themselves. They are eager to learn what they can do to improve the lot of their children as UNICEF shows them how they themselves may build for the future. UNICEF is not a charity in the usual sense of the term, but is rather a common sense program to teach willing learners to help themselves so that they may take pride in their own accomplishments.

UNICEF reaches for fundamentals in its stress on teaching mothers how to care for their children - how to prevent infectious diseases from spreading through ignorance of the principles of hygiene, and the importance of a nutritious diet to the health and mental development of the oncoming generation of children. it has been said that to educate a woman is to educate the whole family; many millions of families face a brighter future because of UNICEF's vision.

I am aware, however, that the work of the Children's Fund is not as widely understood by the American people as it deserves to be. In some instances, it has been the target of serious misrepresentations that have raised questions in the minds of sincere citizens who may not know how to obtain the facts for themselves. I, therefore, invite the attention of Senators and the American people to a description of the way the U.N. Children's Fund functions. I ask unanimous consent that it be printed in the Record.

There being no objection, the description was ordered to be printed Record, as follows:

DESCRIPTION OF UNITED NATIONS CHILDREN'S FUND PURPOSE AND PHILOSOPHY

UNICEF is one of the family of United Nations agencies assisting developing nations. As the sole organization within the United Nations system to focus on children, it is unique. Its major objective is to co-operate with developing countries as they strive to improve the conditions of their children and young people and prepare them to contribute to their societies.

UNICEF emphasizes the need to give high priority to children and adolescents in national plans. It participates in projects, upon request by developing countries, by giving material assistance largely in the form of supplies and equipment and by helping governments find effective ways of improving services for their children.

At the beginning of the 1970's, the UN's second Decade of Development, there is a new awareness of the importance of human resources in economic development and a recognition that the ultimate aim of progress is not things, but people. AS Henry R. Labouisse, the Executive Director of UNICEF, recently stated, "... human resources, whose importance to development is at last being recognized, do not simply arrive on the scene well prepared and of sound mind and body. They require deliberate preparation, certainly as youth, but actually from the earliest possible moment." With this point of view, the Children's Fund urges no separate plan solely for children but, rather, an extension of governments' plans to include concern for the protection and preparation of children to enable them to lead useful lives.

ORIGIN OF UNICEF

Today, while UNICEF's focus is children in the developing world, the organization began in a more limited context. Known originally as the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund, UNICEF was created to alleviate the suffering of children in the aftermath of World War II. Former President Herbert Hoover was appointed by President Truman in 1946 to head a survey mission which recommended that the U.S. Government suppor the creation of a United Nations Body to meet the emergency needs of children in countries devastated by war. On December 11, 1946. UNICEF was established by the United Nations General Assembly.

During its first years UNICEF concentrated on providing material assistance to children of the war- ravaged countries of Europe. In 1950 the UN General Assembly continued UNICEF's mandate, but with a new direction: to assist programs of long range benefit to children in less developed countries. In 1953 this mandate was continued indefinitely and the name of the organization was changed to the United Nations Children's Fund.

TYPES OF UNICEF-AIDED PROJECTS

The specific kinds of projects assisted depend on the priority needs of children in an individual countries requesting UNICEF's assistance. In general, UNICEF- aided projects are in the field of health, nutrition, education, social services and pre- vocational training. These include assistance to health services for mothers andchildren, disease prevention and control, environmental sanitation, applied nutrition, milk processing, development of low-cost protein food concentrates, teacher training or refresher training, local production of teaching materials, teaching of science and practical skills, day-care and training in women's activities. While emergency aid is no longer a major part of UNICEF's work, it is provided when not sufficently available from other sources.

Training of national personnel is at the core of most projects in all fields; about 30% of assistance is devoted to training within the assisted country. Such a policy helps to assure the continuation of benefits to children after UNICEF's own participation has terminated.

Contrary to some popular misunderstandings, UNICEF does not give money to the governments for procurement. What UNICEF provides covers a wide range- from medical supplies for children's health services to production equipment for milk processing and weaning foods. In addition, some scholarships are given for nationals being trained in UNICEF- assisted projects.

The first Executive Director, Maurice Pate, an American citizen, served from UNICEF's inception to his death in 1965. His successor, the present Executive Director, Henry R. Labouisse, is also a citizen of the United States, and a former U.S. Ambassador to Greece.

In the last five years UNICEF's dollar expenditures in the United States have been higher than its income from sources within the United States (governmental and private), due to contributions in United States currency made by more than twenty other governments.

The impetus for UNICEF's work, today as in its emergency beginnings, is the knowledge that, throughout the world, millions of children suffer. "Every half minute, 100 children are born in developing countries. Twenty of them will die within the year. Of the 80 who survive, 60 will have no access to modern medical care during their childhood.

Of those who live to school age, only a little more than half will ever set foot in a classroom, and less than 4 out of 10 of those who do enter will complete the elementary grades. This situation is especially disturbing when we realize that three quarters of all the world's children under 15 years of age — over a billion children -live in developing countries."

A child's needs must be met today. Tomorrow may be too late.

Wilde Thinks Ecology Can Sell Tickets

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Can ecology sell tickets at the box office?

Cornel Wilde thinks so. MGM hopes so. The film company backed him to the tune of $1.3 million to produce and direct "No Blade of Grass," which tells a horror tale of the 1970s; what happens when pollution takes over.

This is Wilde's seventh film as a producer-director, the first in which he does not appear. He starred himself in the previous ones "Storm Fear," "The Naked Prey," "Beach Red".

"For this picture I didn't want to use easily recognizable faces," he explained. "I wanted to have a documentary flavor, a feeling that this world tragedy could be happening."

And it can happen here, Wilde is convinced. The basis of his tale:

It is in England, four or five years from now. World famine has been caused by pollution: a virus mutation has wiped out all grass and grain. China has bombed half of its population so that the other half might have a chance of survival. Human life has virtually ended in South America.

London is being closed down; it can no longer support life. Citizens flee to the countryside, where roving bands maraud, seeking food.

Fantastic? Unbelievable?

"I don't think so," insists Wilde. "Look at the fungus that destroyed so much of our corn crop this summer. Look at Pensacola Bay, where millions of fish died from lack of oxygen. Look at Lake Erie, which is totally dead. How do you bring a dead lake back to life?

"Look at ..."

Wilde is well-stocked with examples of rampant pollution. "I started getting interested in ecology when I read Rachel Carson's 'Silent Spring'," he said. "At that time I, like nearly everyone else, thought that she had overdramatized her theme. No one then could imagine that our environment could undergo such severe damage.

Homecoming Parade at State Saturday

CAPE GIRARDEAU — The several thousand people who will line both sides of Broadway a main thoroughfare, Saturday morning for the annual homecoming parade of Southeast Missouri State College will be treated to an extravagazna of marching bands, artistic floats, and pretty girls.

The parade will begin at Capaha Park and wind up at Main Street.

Heading the list of bands in the parade is the famed Golden Eagles Marching Band of Southeast Missouri State, which will perform in January at the Super Bowl in Miami.

The Golden Eagles will follow the color guard and parade marshall in the parade line- up. Shortly behind the college band will be the Homecoming queen, who will be crowned Friday night during a concert at Houck Field House.

Four other band from Cape Girardeau schools will also participate in the parade. They are from Central Senior High School, Central Junior High, Louis J. Schultz School, and Notre Dame High School.

Other bands which will march include those from Clearwater High, Piedmont; Bell City; St. Francois R-3 High, Flat River; Potosi R-3; Clarkton; Anna- Jonesboro, Ill.; Puxico; Thomas W. Kelly High, Benton; Scott County Central, Morley; Steelville; Parkway Central High in St. Louis County; and Parkway West Senior High in St. Louis County.

Three classes of floats appear in the parade, and first and second place tophies will be given in each class. The winners will be chosen by a panel of five judges, who will base their decision partly on how well the float adheres to this year's Homecoming theme, "Stargazer '70."

In addition, for the first time, the parade marshal will personally pick a favorite float and a trophy will be awarded to the organization which constructed it. This year's parade marshal is Mrs. Mary Helen Flentge, associate dean of students.

Class A floats are constructed on tractor- trailers, and Class B floats are built on pick- up trucks or farm tractors. Class C floats are decorated automobiles. Six floats are entered in he Class A category. Most were constructed through the joint efforts of a social sorority and social fraternity.

In addition to the float competition, there are several other categories of competition revolving around house decorations and banners promoting Homecoming spirit.

There will be separate contests for large on- campus living units, small on- campus living units,and small off- campus living units. There is also contest for student organizations which have their own buildings and a separate contest for student organizations without buildings.

Science in Your Life

By Bob Jones
Missouri Agricultural Experiment Station -- UMC

HOW a large organization can move quickly to mobilize its manpower and research resources to tackle a new problem was demonstrated recently when Southern Corn Leaf Blight struck Missouri. In all the nation, probably only the land grant universities had the facilities to meet this problem.

At the Univesity of Missouri, Dean of Agriculture Elmer R. Kiehl promptly named a committee to develop a plan for giving leadership to Extension and research efforts in the corn leaf blight battle. The committee is headed by plant pathologist Einar Palm and includes plant breeder Marcus Zuber.

This action group also includes specialists in agricultural engineering, agronomy, animal husbandry, agricultural economics, weather, and communications. Members of this committee are the scientists or are colleagues of the scientists who will be working n the fields and the laboratories to protect the Missouri economy, both rural and urban, from the devastation of the blight which has hurt this state's most important cash crop.

The efforts of the UMC staff members to conquer this new problem as quickly as possible and their use of the latest research from every possible source are further examples of the importance of science ir your life.

You've heard it said, when you stop smoking your food will taste much better and you'll put on weight. Five Temple University School of Medicine researchers have a different answer. Smokers who stop smoking can expect lowering of their metabolic rate and a resulting weight gain, even if their food intake remains the same, they report.

Would you start your self-propelled lawn mower and turn it loose? A firm in Tonawada, N.Y., has developed a product called Mowbot that you handle just that way.

As owner, you determine the outside boundaries of the area to be mowed, using a buried wire that emits a signal that can be detected by the machine's electronic sensors. In the same way you protect trees and other fixed objects. The sensor that receives the signal turns the mower away from the wire at an angle that differs from the angle of approach.

The mower will crisscross the lawn at random, taking nearly twice as long as if guided by an efficient human. However, it eventually will mow the entire area while you are free to do other chores or watch TV or take a nap.

New evidence of the way the various phases of growth and development are coordinated has come from research on corn borers in the UMC College of Agriculture's department of entomology.

David Jacob and G. M. Chippendale found that corn borers failed to develop well or developed slowly when growing in total darkness. When there were periods of regular light and dark the larvae did much better.

One interpretation that the researchers give to this phenomenon is that rhythmic enviornmental conditions serve to synchronize the various physiological phases. In constant environmental conditions, these phases can get out of time with one another, resulting in lower growth rates.

Forty-five per cent of the post doctoral students in U.S. universities and other institutions are from outside the U.S., according to a report published by the National Academy of Sciences. Because of their training (Ph.D.), ability, and position, such students play a major role in the day to day science of the U.S.

The perfect birth control method, is the way some scientists have described it. They were talking about applications of hormonelike prostaglandins, a family of some 14 members which have been identified so far.

Dr. Reimert Ravenholt of the Office of Population in the Agency for International Development has cited studies with Swedish women using prostaglandins as their only means of birth control. He said the results show that "Something has finally come along that is very close to a non-toxic, self administerable, completely effective, one-a-month contraceptive that can be used with the practice of hindsight."

In the Swedish studies, the women are given infusions of prostaglandins only if their menstrual periods are delayed by more than two days and they have positive pregnancy tests. Results have been 100 percent effective so far.

A number of scientists who met recently in New York to discuss the prostaglandins believe that they have a fantastic future. In addition to their use in birth control, they have been used to bring on labor or to produce abortion early in pregnancy.

The scientists also believe that they will eventually prove effective in control of blood pressure, prevention and treatment of gastric ulcers and blood clots, and treatment of such diverse difficulties as male infertility, asthma, and nasal congestion.

Armed Forces

CW3 Robert R. Vaughan, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Vaughan of 410 Shady Lane, is in Vietnam again. While he was there three years ago, he wrote a column titled Vietnam Montage which was published in the Daily Standard.

He recently wrote his parents of the death of a good friend in a helicopter accident. Since they went over there together, and were roommates, he was shaken by his friend's death.

It inspired him to write a poem:

The Twenty I Have Known
Sometimes at night shrouded
By mist and distorted by pain,
I see their faces again.

And their voices call accusingly
To me in my bed, and they ask,
"Why is it that you aren't dead?"

"We who laughed and drank together
As we both drew breath -- should we
Not lay together now, in eath?"

I sit up in my sleep
And with an anguished cry,
Shout "NO--- I don't want to die!"

But they smile -- No, it is not
Evil. Each of the twenty dead was my friend.
And they say, "Your life too, will end."

"But not here, oh God!"
"Please." I pray
"Allow me peace until my Judgement Day."

And mercifully, I awaken
And the twenty are gone.
Their voices have left, but the memory stays on.

They were men like myself,
Caught up in this monstrous life,
And without noble cause or reason, they were forced to die.

Mrs. Vaughan sent a copy of this poem to her mother in Jackson, Miss., and a niece, Miss Sheila Renolds, read it. It struck a responsive chord in her. She wrote a reply which she sent to her cousin in Vietnam:

That They Have
Not Died in Vain

These twenty men, your martyred friends
Whose lives were senseless taken,
Live on in thoughts, in minds, and hearts,
No memory forsaken.

These selfless men, whose only sin
Was freedom's way of life,
Gave all they had, their lives. It's sad,
For such a senseless strife.

But if you can, remember them,
The brave men that they were,
And take heart. They did their part
To make our lives secure.

So now recall, these twenty all,
Who lost, that we might gain.
Remember them as honored men,
And they will not have died in vain!

Those who read Vietnam Montage may remember that the recovery helicopter that Vaughn was on when the recovery missions were made, was named in honor of Sheila Kay, because of her successful efforts in sending thousands of books to Vietnam for the men to read.

The helicopter Miss Sheila Kay, was destroyed when it landed on a mine while on a recovery mission, the crew was spared serious injuries.

Don't Like Salt Water

Frogs are unable to tolerate salt water, but they have colonized oceanic islands in the Antilles, Polynesia and Micronesia, according to Encyclopaedia Brittanica.

Letter to the Editor
Sikeston Standard
Sikeston, Missouri

Dear Mr. Blanton:

Another election day will be here Tuesday, and up to now it seems to me that things have been sorta quiet in this neck of the woods. I wonder if the voters realize that more than ever before we need to go to the polls and vote. With our World in the condition that it is in today all of us need to take a stand for what we believe.

Much mud slinging has been done, and many accusations have been made in our State and Congressional Districts. I admire the way our Democrat Candidates have in most part considered the source and risen above it.

It is nice from time to time to have opponents to point out the deficiencies in our State Government. Since every one is prone to make mistakes they can be better analyzed and corrected when seen from an objective view.

Missouri could never have achieved its place of greatness in our Nation today if it was being run by the shiftless, unconcerned, crooked, lying, stealing bunch of politicians as described by our Mr. Danforth, Mr. Rust, and Mr. Bond. It is nice to know that Missouri has achieved its Greatness in spite of people who like to run it down.

I came to Missouri in 1937 and worked for less than $15.00 a week. Missouri has given me an opportunity to grow, to educate my children in the best schools in the Nation, and to be a part of it. For this I am grateful.

If my history books do not deceive me this has been done by the Democrats. I hope the voters in our districts go to the polls Tuesday and keep it that way.

Yours truly,
Lloyd Hogan

HOW DO YOU COOL IT on a hot, humid summer afternoon? The answer among young people at least, seems to be universal—find running water. If you're in a small community like Northampton, Mass., there's the spillway of a flood-control dam (bottom right). If you're in a metropolis like Rome (top) or Toronto, Canada (bottom left), there are fountains.

QUICK QUIZ

Q—What do the initials L.P.N. on the sleeve of a nurse's uniform indicate?

A—The letters indicate that she is a licensed practical nurse.

Q—Why are oysters of a certain kind called blue points?

A—Blue point oysters were originally so called from Blue Point, a village on Long Island near which oysters of a small variety were found in natural beds.

Q—What fish builds a nest much the way a bird does?

A—The four-spined stickleback, which weaves portions of water plants into a sort of basket, using growing stalks as the framework. After the female lays her eggs, the male roofs it over.

KERSHNER-ROWE COMMENTARY

Howard Kershner Edward Rowe

Imperishable words of Edmund Burke

Edmund Burke left us imperishable words of wisdom. So long as men seek to better their condition in life and reform their societies' institutions, they should turn again to Burke. Almost alone at first among the men of stature in his day, he foresaw the great evils inherent in the French Revolution and the ultimate horrors it would lead to. The following passage is from his political classic, "REFLECTIONS ON THE REVOLUTION IN FRANCE." Most of our civil turmoil today follows exactly the same radicalism that issued in the Jacobinism of Burke's time.

"Rage and frenzy will pull down more in half an hour than prudence, deliberation and foresight can build up in a hundred years. The errors and defects of old establishments are visible and plain to the mind. It calls for little ability to point them out, and where absolute power is given, it requires but a word to wholly abolish the vice and the establishment with it.

"At once to perserve and to reform is quite another thing. When the useful parts of an old establishment are kept and what is superadded is to be fitted to what is retained, then these are to be exercised: a vigorous mind, steady persevering attention, various powers of comparison and combination, and the resources of an understanding that is fruitful in those things which are apts and advisable.

"If circumspection and caution are a part of wisdom when we work only upon inanimate matter, surely they become a part of duty, too, when the object of our demolition and construction is not brick and timber but living, feeling beings. The true lawgiver ought to have a heart full of sensibility. He ought to love and respect his kind, and to fear himself.

"Political arrangement, as it is a work for social ends, is to be wrought by social means. There, mind must counsel with mind. Time is required to produce that union of minds which alone can bring forth all good we aim at. Our patience will achieve more than our force. I should tell you that in my course I have known and, according to my measure, have co-operated with great men; I have never yet seen any plan which has not been mended by the observations of those who were much inferior in understanding to the person who took the lead in the business.

These words of a great conservative and reformer are more timely in this hour than ever before.

The Prayer
from The Upper Room

Father, . . . not my will, but thine, be done. (Luke 22:42)

PRAYER: O God, we regret the passing of the years when we failed to accept Thy guidance. Give us the faith to trust fully in Thee this day and the courage needful for obedience to Thy will. In the spirit of Christ. Amen.

Dirt Blanket Found Fixed Over Boston

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) — A research agency that has been taking air samples over the East Coast since 1967 has discovered a fixed blanket of dirt particles hanging over Boston. The forces that keep it intact defy wind and rain, according to the study.

Results of research were made public by the Charles D. Sias Laboratories of Brookline.

The study took spot samples of air over Boston three times a day, five times a week beginning in 1967. Color photographs of the Boston skyline were used to show smog and cloud formations. Wind direction, force, humidity and barometric pressure were also recorded.

By 1969, the research team suspected some unusual formation in the atmosphere. Scrutiny showed that enough material was being discharged into the air to form a large mass of small inert particles.

The mass is so dense, said researcher William A. Curby, that it is unaffected by the rain and is seldom broken up or dispersed. The cohesiveness comes from forces greater than the earth's gravity, Curby said.

Wind from the east has always been considered a cleansing agent in Boston, bringing in cool, clean air from over the ocean. The study shows it also brings back the pollutant dirt particles.

It rarely moves more than a few miles off shore. The debris concentration is now so dense it shows signs of altering major weather patterns to create "high and low bursts," very good weather for a number of days followed by several days of bad weather.

Service Award to Cairo Hospital

CAIRO, Ill. — St. Mary's Hospital here has received a distinguished service award from the Illinois Hospital Association.

The hospital was cited for "dedication to continued service to its community in a time of rapid and disturbing social change."

St. Mary's Hospital shares the award - the first to be presented by the associaton - with Bethany Brethren - Garfield Park Hospital in Chicago.

The Cairo hospital, staffed by the Sisters of the Sacred Cross, has served the area for more than 100 years. The Roman Catholic order arrived in Cairo during the Civil War to nurse both Union and Confederate sick and wounded.

Despite a growing financial problem and community racial disturbances, St. Mary's hospital, which opened in 1867, is planning to expand its geriatric facilities, enlarged its emergency room and start a mental health care program as well as open an outpatient clinic.

The hospital operates at about 65 per cent occupancy with six physicians on the staff, all of whom are in general practice.

Sister Joan Marie is administrator of the hospital.

Church May Be Sold To Pay Minister

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

The Rev. Smyth carried but his ministerial duties with an air of despair. And, he had good reason for it. His parish was so poor it couldn't even support a countrymouse no less the Rev. Smyth.

In fact, after awhile, most of the Reverands prayer were to receive his back salary. Finally, however, he stopped praying and demanded his money outright. When it wasn't forthcoming, he took the matter to court.

"I haven't been paid in 6 months," he told the judge. "And since the only asset possessed by the church is the church, I demand that it be ordered sold so that I can be paid."

"Only the devil himself would suggest such a thing," responded the horrified parish members. "Without a church, people might lose their ways to the Kingdom of Heaven."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you direct the sale of a church to pay the minister?

This is how the judge rules: YES! The judge held that while it might be an "energetic" measure to take, a church may be sold to pay its debts where there are no other assets out of which to pay them. Wages owed to a minister, conluded the judge, is a debt which the church may be sold.

Based upon an 1890 Georgia Supreme Court Decision.

Hearings on Cemetery Bill Announced

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Missouri's Tenth District United States Representative Bill D. Burlison today stated that he had been notified by the house committee on veterans' affairs that hearings would be held before the first of the year on his bill providing for a national cemetery in the 10th Congressional District. Provisions in the bill call for the Secretary of the Army to designate the site. The Secretary of the Army would also be responsible for the administration and upkeep if such a cemetery were established.

Congressman Burlison stated that there are at present only three National Cemeteries located in Missouri; one in St. Louis, one in JeffersonCity and one in the Springfield area.

The Representative noted his friendship with Chairman Olin "Tiger" Teague (Texas) of the Veterans' Affairs Committee. Congressman Teague is a much decorated veteran of the Second World War.

The Congressman stated that "Though my opponent criticized and ridiculed the bill in his newspaper, "The Bulletin" on April 11, 1969, prior to his being a candidate for U.S. Congressman, I am hopeful that now he might announce support for the legislation." Burlison who served 3½ years in the United States Marine Corps offered as a possible explanation for his opponent's opposition to the legislation his lack of understanding of the need for such a project in this district. "His failure to serve in the Armed Forces may account for his lack of concern and understanding for this much needed project," Burlison remarked.

The Representative further pointed out that many Veterar organizations had contacted him after introduction of the legislation, urging passage of the bill. Burlison noted that he had heard of no opposition to such legislation.

Show & Tell

As I sat watching Patton's piercing eyes glaring down on me, I got the distinct impression that I should put my popcorn down and salute- that's the kind of film PATTON is.

The Malco is now playing what I believe to be the best things (PATTON and MASH) that have hit this town since indoor plumbing.

George C. Scott is a genius in his portrayal of the strange, distant, authoritative Patton. A firm believer in reincarnation, Patton was a hero - villian, a goodguy- badguy, and satan - saint, all wrapped into one.

Gen. George S. Patton was perhaps the most controversial leader of WWII. His unorthodox behavior brought him fleeting glory, but at the same time brought him condemnation from his superiors.

Patton was the pure warrior- profanely religious, utterly outspoken, a masterpiece of a war machine.

The movie is however more than a historical documentary of Patton's life. It gets much deeper into human nature and the politics of war. You come out of the movie loving Patton and hating politicians, but that's not unusual is it.

I found the movie to be very sad especially when Patton is forced to "play the game" as he says. It's amazing how his fight with politicians parellels what is happening today. Unfortunately the outcome is often the same.

When you go to see PATTON, don't miss looking carefully at Patton's dog. It is the funniest looking creature that I have ever seen. It strangely resembles a girl I use to date.

Bones Identified As Belonging to Mental Patient

FULTON, Mo. (AP)— Human bones found in a wooded area have been identified tentatively as those of a mental patient who walked away from Fulton State Hospital April 10, 1965.

Two bow hunters, Carrol Holloway and Bob Chiles, stumbled on a skull Oct. 19 next to a fence row in a wooded area called Dark Hollow. They reported their find to Sheriff Ted Salmons of Callaway County, who later found the rest of the skeleton about 100 feet downhill.

Coroner Gene Maupin said a check of hospital records and x rays indicated the skeleton was that of Sam Williams, who had been sent to the hospital in 1940 from the state penitentiary, where he was serving a sentence for felonious assault.

Baker Says Prayer Rider Not Bid to Kill Women's Rights

WASHINGTON (PA) — The public school prayer amendment recently approved by the Senate was not offered as an effort to kill the women's rights amendment, says its author, Sen. Howard H. Baker, R-Tenn.

The Senate earlier this month approved Baker's proposal to permit nondenominational prayer in schools by a 50-20 vote. It had been offered as an amendment to a proposal to amend the constitution to guarantee equal rights for women.

Some supporters of the women's rights measure have suggested that opponents were seeking to kill it by loading it down with amendments.

The proposal will be before the Senate when it returns next month after the election recess but proponents aren't too optimistic over its prospects.
